MURPHY AGAIN HEADS FIREMEN

Andrew J. Murphy was re-elected president of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association at the annual meeting held Thursday evening at the city hall. The other officers, who were also re-elected, are: First vice-president, E. F. Moran; second vice-president, George Schick; recording secretary, L. E. Dunne; financial secretary and treasurer, Francis S. Cashin. The association also elected Frank Wynne and Chauncey Lane directors for three years and John A. Heaney, delegate to the Hudson Valley Firemen's Association.

READY FOR Y. W. C. A. MEMBERSHIPS

Girls and Women May Join at Y. M. C. A. Saturday—Mass Meeting to be Held Tuesday.

Tomorrow Miss Riseley, of the faculty of School No. 6, and Mrs. Warner, of the H. Y. Girls' organization, will be at the Y. M. C. A. to take memberships of the school girls of the city between the ages of 12 and 18 for the Y. W. C. A. that is being planned for this city. Miss Riseley will be at the Y. M. C. A. from 10:20 a. m. to 12 m., and Mrs. Warner will be there from 2 to 4 p. m.

The yearly membership dues for the school girls mentioned above is 50 cents and that for girls and women over 15 years is $1 a year. This is just the membership, entitling the girl or woman to the privilege of the building, its social activities, etc., but does not include the use of a swimming pool, gymnasium, etc., provided that the Y. W. C. A. starts out with such equipment. If there is to be a swimming pool, a gymnasium, bowling alleys, etc., there must be an instructor for each such activity and instructors have to be paid salaries, so that there will be small additional fees charged for these special features. But it has not at all been determined as yet that Kingston will start out in such a big way. That will have to be determined at the mass meeting to be held at the high school auditorium next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. At that time Miss Capen, of the National Y. W. C. A. board, will be present to answer questions, give information, make suggestions, and generally help out in the completing of plans for the new project. There will also be a few minute men and women of the city to speak, and all organizations, industries, churches, etc., of the city in any way likely to be interested in this meeting.

ADDISON WHITE MUST SUPPORT HIS FAMILY

Held Under $500 Bond to Pay Wife $10 a Week—A Taxi Case.

Addison White, who has been employed at Rifton, and who was arrested on complaint of his wife of Cedar street, charging her husband with failure to support her, was held under $500 bonds this morning in police court to pay his wife $10 a week. The bail bond was furnished by his father. Benjamin Meyers, a taxi driver, arrested for violation of the taxi ordinance in soliciting passengers while standing more than five feet from his car, was discharged with a reprimand in police court. He explained to Judge Schirck that since the river ferry had stopped running, he did not know that the same regulations governing the taxi stand at the ferry were in force. Judge Schirck informed him they were and that the next one arrested and found guilty would not be let off so easily.

REV. WILKINS DENIES IMPUTED LEAGUE RELATION.

The Rev. Alfred M. Wilkins, pastor of the Catskill Methodist Episcopal Church, has written a letter to the Catskill Daily Mail denying that he has now or ever had any official relation with the Anti-Saloon league, as Frank A. Galt of Catskill testified in a hearing before Judge Stanley of the supreme court in Albany recently, an account of which was given in the Albany Knickerbocker Press. The Rev. Mr. Wilkins does admit, however, that he took an active part in favor of the candidacy of H. Westlake Coons for congress.

At Ponckhockie School.

This evening at 7:45 o'clock the pupils of School No. 4 in Ponckhockie will present pleasing entertainment at the school under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' Association. A nominal admission will be charged.

Mooney With Cullum.

P. H. Mooney, formerly with the Cornell Steamboat Co., has accepted a position with Cullum & Co., boiler makers on Thomas street.

Church Supper.

The ladies of the Ponckhockie Church will serve a Dutch supper at the church on Tuesday evening, February 27, from 5 to 8 o'clock.

City Zoning in Oneonta.

The common council of Oneonta has authorized an expert to prepare a zoning ordinance for the city.

"BILL" SCHWAB HAS SIGNED UP

Well Known Local Player Signs With Colonials to Play Outer Garden—Colonials Pitching Staff to Be Made Up of Culloton, McAuliffe and Forsythe.

Manager Lou Brown of the Kingston Colonials stated today that so far but three men have been signed to play with the team this season. Those who have signed are Jack Robins, catcher; Rube Forsythe, pitcher, and "Bill" Schwab, outer garden. Manager Brown said that according to present plans the pitching staff of the Colonials this season would be made up of Bud Culloton, "Bill" McAuliffe, and Rube Forsythe, with Jack Robins on the receiving end.

Manager Brown also said that this season the team would be made up of as many local players as possible and that Secretary Scherer would see those who appeared with the team last season and sign them up shortly.

NEW YORK PAPER GETS PHILIP ELTING TO TALK.

Says He Doesn't Believe in Too Much of It.

In Thursday morning's issue of the New York American in its column, "They Say," Philip Elting, newly appointed Collector of the Port of New York, is quoted as follows: "I think a great many men with their country's best interests at heart talk too much. The public remembers utterances long after the public man has forgotten them. And newspapers have a way of recording these statements too. I believe neither in extreme optimism nor pessimism. Regarding the future of America and the future of its business, I think that must depend on the strict and regular exercise of sound reasoning and judgment. The economic law of supply and demand should not be arbitrarily interfered with through theoretical legislation. If our government exercises statesmanship, legislates wisely and will be guided by sound and successfully tried principles, I can see prosperity advancing during 1923."

POUGHKEEPSIE PLANT TO OPERATE ONCE MORE.

Announcement was made on Wednesday in Poughkeepsie, that the operations of the DeJon Corporation in the former F. I. A. factory on the North road will start on May 1, next.

On that date the big machines taken over from the Electric Auto-Lite Company, supplemented by other special machinery, will begin whirling in a new period of production. The corporation is already under contract with Walter C. Durant to equip his two lines of automobiles, the "Fint Six" and the "Princeton Six" with the high-grade electric starting and lighting system for which the DeJon Corporation holds letters patent. The corporation will employ about 800 men.

ILLUSTRATED WASHINGTON LECTURE TO KIWANIS

Secretary Maurice S. Safford of the Y. M. C. A., who, besides secretarial work, does a great number of other things, gave an illustrated lecture on George Washington at the Kiwanis luncheon Thursday in regular Chautauqua style. The numerous maps and photographs of buildings and localities connected with Washington's life and the period of the Revolution was a pleasing variation from the usual recital of facts about or eulogy of the first American and held the close attention of the club throughout.

Next week Kiwanians have been invited to make a tour of inspection of the local telephone plant, to show them that it isn't the girl's fault when the line is busy.

OAKES MAN TAKES UNEXPECTED COLD BATH.

As Fred Hegeman, who is employed as a night foreman at the office of the Central Hudson Steamboat Company at Poughkeepsie, stepped on the ice on the river Tuesday to go to his home at Oakes, the ice gave way under him and he plunged into the water.

He had presence of mind enough to grasp at the ice that had not broken. This was strong enough to support his weight and with a great deal of difficulty he was able to scramble back on the solid ice. Outside of frozen clothes he had no ill effects from his icy bath.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the health board:

Mr. and Mrs. John Schick, 222 Hasbrouck avenue, a son, Raymond W.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Clinton, 216 Downs street, a son, George S.
Mr. and Mrs. John Stomatos, 29 Emerson street, a son, Michael.
Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Kennedy, Eddyville, at Kingston City Hospital, a son, Robert Park.

Mistake Caused Death.

Miss Tillie White died in her home, 8 Washington Place, Newburgh, at an early hour Wednesday morning. She was on her way to her room about 9 o'clock Tuesday evening, when she made a misstep and fell down a flight of stairs, resulting in the fracture of her skull.

What Wouldn't Congress Do If There Was No Constitution?

Dr. Giles Speaks on Representative Government at First Dutch Men's Supper and Dr. Johnston Gives Result of Russian Radicals' Rule.

Washington's birthday was celebrated Thursday evening in old time form by one hundred and sixty men connected with the First Reformed Dutch Church and forty men of other churches with a genuine turkey dinner served in the chapel by the Henrietta Wynkoop Guild, followed by two of the most eloquent addresses delivered in Kingston in many years, the speakers being the Rev. Dr. Warren Giles of East Orange, N. J., who spoke on the necessity of maintaining our present representative form of government by unswerving allegiance to the constitution, and by Dr. Charles H. Johnston of Albany, secretary of New York State Board of Charities and former representative of the United States government to Russia, who told of the deplorable conditions in Russia under the Soviet form of government which soap-box orators are advocating for the United States under the slogan that it means "One for all and all for one."

A Washington's birthday dinner by the men of the church is an innovation, but it proved so acceptable that a continuance of the custom was promised by Judge Clearwater, who presided, for the next two hundred and seventy-four years. (The Rev. Dr. Lucas Beebe, the pastor of the church, pointed out that until certain much-discussed legislation caused toasts to be abandoned, dinners at which there was speaking were in charge of a toastmaster, but now he no longer had any such name, which was only a memory, and he simply presided over the dinner.)

The dinner measured up fully to the reputation of First Dutch cooking, which has been famous during the two hundred and seventy-four years of the church's existence, the turkey and everything which accompanied it, from tomato soup to apple pie a la mode and coffee being served in bountiful quantity of the most delicious quality. The dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock; at eleven o'clock when the speaking ended, not a person could be found to complain of being hungry—a characteristic of First Dutch Church dinners.

Judge Clearwater, in the preliminary speaking, promised a continuation of Washington's birthday dinners, and referred to the time many years ago when it had been customary to serve home-made wine with the annual turkey dinner—but that custom long ago had been abandoned. He referred to the fact that statistics prove Ulster county to be particularly healthy as evidenced by the long life of its people, and in Ulster county there was no healthier place than Kingston city, and if a person here wanted to live long and certainly live well, they should attend the First Dutch Church.

The Rev. Dr. Warren Giles of East Orange, N. J., who was the first speaker of the evening, entertained his hearers with wit, humor, and common sense for more than an hour. In responding to the introduction accorded him by Judge Clearwater, Dr. Giles said that if he were selected to revise the litany and liturgy of the Reformed Church, he would make it read: "From all traducers and introducers, Good Lord, deliver us."

At a dinner several nights ago at which Augustus Thomas was the principal speaker, he had found himself the only male present, so he began, "Ladies and—there he noticed he was the only man, so he tapped himself on the chest, and continued, "Ladies, women live only for the present, and the hand-somer the present, the better they like it. Woman is as old as she feels; man is as old as he looks; and he is old when he stops looking."

In complimenting the women of the church, Dr. Giles told of the difficulties men sometimes had in say-

Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 26, 1922.
E. W. Hathaway, treasurer, Farm Bureau, Kingston, N. Y.
Dear Sir:

As per your request I have audited the accounts of the Home Bureau for the year 1922. I have checked receipts and disbursements and certified the bank balance, and found them correct. The balance of cash on hand Dec. 23, 1922, is $497.32. Respectfully,
JOSEPH E. TURNER,
Accountant.

The budget as made out by the Executive Committee for the year 1922 totaled $4352.00. The difference of $636.93 between the amount budgeted and the amount spent, $3855.07, is due to the fact that Council contributed $250.00 extra toward agent salary.

That the State Federation of Home Bureaus allowed us to continue this year as non voting members without paying our dues of $1.00.
That the college excused us from paying $45 for institute services.
We were also excused by the college from paying for specialist service which would amount to about $200.

In addition $50 was received as a personal contribution, making the total $685 nearly the difference between the amount budgeted and the amount spent. We were excused from this amount by the various organizations through letters written by Mrs. Warren, county chairman at that time. The membership will realize that it is impossible to beg off from these things again this coming year.

POUGHKEEPSIE SHY ON BRIDGE PROMOTION FUND.

Enthusiasm is now running high throughout the state in favor of a highway bridge at Poughkeepsie and city after city is being enlisted in its support. At least thirty influential men outside of the city of Poughkeepsie have been enlisted to speak for the measure at the committee hearing which will be held in Albany in the near future. President Farrant, of Cornell University, has assured the committee that he will come to the hearing and speak in favor of the bill.

Just one thing is causing the committee grave concern and that is the lack of monetary enthusiasm displayed by the citizens of Poughkeepsie. At least $7,000 is needed for the success of the campaign and only a little over $1,500 has been raised. The committee has now adopted the slogan, "If you don't come across, we can't go across."

MIDDLETOWN TO VOTE ON CITY MANAGER PLAN.

Today the city of Middletown votes on whether or not they will change from their present plan of city government, which is similar to Kingston's, to the city manager plan of government.

If the proposition is carried, the people of the city will elect a mayor and four councilmen, all with equal powers. This mayor and council will hire a city manager. This manager can be changed at any time. The council itself is rotated every two years. The manager will very likely be paid a salary of $5,000 a year.

WESTERN UNION GIVES BONUS TO ITS WORKERS.

The Western Union Telegraph Company Wednesday distributed a bonus of $1,775,000 to the 35,000 of its 54,000 employees. The award is equivalent to 4 1/2 per cent of each employee's salary for the month of July, 1922. Messenger boys received a flat bonus of $17.50 each, but none of the messengers up town will participate as they have not been employed the specified time.

Sawing Wood, Drops Dead.

While sawing wood in the cellar of his store on the corner of Lander and First streets, Newburgh, Wednesday morning, David Bell died from an attack of heart disease. His son, David C. Bell, was in the market above the cellar, and hearing a strange sound, as well as a cessation of sawing, he visited the cellar and found his father on the floor unconscious.

M. A. MEAGHER, DIES; NEARLY 80

A Lifelong and Well Known Resident of Ulster County Who Was One of Staunchest and Most Active Democrats—Was State Official.

Michael A. Meagher died at his home, 145 Downs street, this morning, after a long illness. Mr. Meagher was in the eightieth year of his age, and was born at Olive Branch, town of Olive. He was the son of Dennis and Mary Connors Meagher. In early life he married Anna Clancy and they moved to Margaretville where for nearly thirty years he manufactured dairy supplies. About twenty-five years ago with his family he came to Kingston to live where he engaged in the insurance business.

Mr. Meagher was a politician of the "Old School" and took special delight in political campaigns. He was always ready and took advantage of every opportunity to take part in a political debate or a political meeting. He was a staunch supporter of Democratic principles, and he never allowed friend or foe to speak lightly of anything that could be construed as a criticism on these principles. He was highly respected by his opponents for his sterling integrity and truth in a political battle. He spoke the truth fearlessly and he was never known to flinch when his opponent was able to bring to bear some important point in the debate.

When Judge Parker ran for president of the United States Mr. Meagher was selected as one of the campaigners to take the "stump" for Judge Parker and he was sent into the Middle West where he did good work for his party. He was well known in Ulster and Delaware counties for his activity in local politics as well as in his business connections.

When the Hon. William D. Brinier was mayor of Kingston, Mr. Meagher was alms commissioner of the Second Ward and in 1891 he was appointed deputy state superintendent of elections which office he held four years.

Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Meagher celebrated their golden wedding.

He is survived by his widow, Anna Clancy Meagher, his sister, Mrs. Richard Leonard and the following children: William D. Meagher, New York city; Mrs. J. A. Hamilton, Brooklyn; Joseph S. Meagher, Woodhaven, N. Y.; Mrs. J. E. Viscant, Red Hook, N. Y.; Lieut. Col. Frank L. Meagher and Elizabeth L. Meagher of this city, and several grand children.

SPEAKER AT SALVATION ARMY SERVICES SUNDAY

Colonel J. J. Margetta, a Salvation Army officer of long standing will be in Kingston Saturday and Sunday nights.

The colonel who has been in charge of the young peoples' work of the Salvation Army has travelled far and wide in the interests of the organization, and is a very able man on the platform.

Colonel Margetta has two children who are officers in the Salvation Army. The public is cordially invited to hear the colonel.

Sunday morning Colonel Margetta will speak to the boys at Napanoch. He will be accompanied by Captain Newton as soloist.

Tonight at eight o'clock the three Salvation Army lassies will have charge of the service. Everybody is welcome.

A large crowd gathered to the banquet given to the Salvation Army Sunday school on Washington's birthday.

Games were played and the little guests departed at a late hour, having had a splendid time.

At an afternoon service Mrs. C. Sickles read a part of Washington's life which was helpful as well as instructive to the young folk.

150 PLAYED PINOCCHLE AT PYTHIANS' PARTY

The progressive pinocchle party given Thursday evening by the members of Franklin Lodge, No. 37, Knights of Pythias at Pythian Hall was attended by a very large crowd, at one time there were as many as 150 playing. The prizes which were awarded to the winners were of a very substantial character having been donated by the following persons and firms: E. B. Howard, Henry Hoffman, Fitzpatrick & Draper, Roosa Brothers, Gregory and Company, S. Cohen's Sons, Joseph Schiff, Columbia Shop, Rose Gorman-Rose, Up-To-Date Company, Mrs. George Smith, Valentin Burgevin, Inc., and Miss Lillian Cathcart.

Food Sales Tomorrow.

Mrs. William Jackson's class of the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church will hold a food sale at the millinery of Mrs. Clavin's 648 Broadway on Saturday afternoon, February 24, beginning at 2 o'clock. A food sale will be held Saturday afternoon, from 2 to 6 o'clock at the Rose-Gorman-Rose store under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

BOY PICKS UP OLD GUN; IS DEAD

Johnson Lad, on Way to School, Killed by Charge of Shot in Barn Near Shultis' Corners.

A young lad about 12 years of age by the name of Johnson who resides near Shultis' Corners on the Woodstock-Saugerties road about four miles below Woodstock accidentally shot himself this morning shortly before 9 o'clock and died almost immediately from the wound. It was impossible to learn how the accident happened as no one witnessed the accident.

From what could be learned it appears that the young lad was on his way to school. As he passed the farm of Mr. Consins he stopped at the barn where an old fashioned shotgun stood near the door. A young man who was doing chores about the barn heard a shot fired and went to investigate. He found the Johnson boy dead from the charge of shot which entered his body through the chest and penetrated the lungs. The boy had evidently been examining the gun which was of old style and accidentally fired it.

Dr. Downer of Woodstock was immediately notified and responded but upon his arrival found the boy had died almost instantly. Dr. Downer notified Sheriff Kolts in the absence of Coroner Conner who was out of town.

The name of the boy's parents could not be learned and it was not possible to learn the given name of the young lad.

POST OFFICE IN MANSION HOUSE

Word of New Site Officially Received

This Afternoon of Location of Downtown Substation—Will Be in Store Around Corner From Broadway.

Word was received officially in Kingston this afternoon that the downtown substation of the post office would be located in the Mansion House building in the store on the Strand side, adjoining the corner store.

Many of the downtown merchants favored the corner store for the post office, but the owner of the building demanded a rental of $1,300, which the government thought too high. The rental for the Strand store is $800 and the store has been leased for ten years commencing April 1.

The new office will also have the "L" room in the rear of the store, and will be completely equipped with new fixtures. It is expected that a sign reading "U. S. Post Office Substation" will be erected over the sidewalk so that the station can be readily found by strangers.

The government has been paying a rental of $300 a year for the present substation at No. 31 Broadway. The present location has been used for post office purposes for the past ten years when it was removed from the building on the Strand to Broadway.

GAMES HERE ON MONDAY NIGHTS

At the league contest played at the armory Thursday evening, it was announced the hereafter for at least the next three weeks, games would be played on the local armory court on Monday evenings. Troy will be the first team here on next Monday evening, followed by Cohoes and then Albany.

In a brief conversation with Manager Morgenweck Thursday evening he stated that he was determined to win the last half of series, thereby killing the chance of having a play-off between the first half and second half winners, which would prove profitable to the managers of the contesting teams. Some of the reasons for the local manager's determination is that up-state teams were looking to him to have his team lay down and also that it has been rumored around town that this would be the outcome.

Twenty games are to be played in this last half race, which means Kingston has five more to go, three at home and two on the road.

If Albany drops out of the league an exhibition game between Kingston and some Metropolitan team or the Original Celtics may be looked forward to.

SCHERER'S MOTOMETER PART OF COST OF MOVIE VISIT

Joseph Scherer of South Rondout drove to Kingston Wednesday evening and attended the Orpheum Theater. While at the performance he parked his car on the opposite side of the theater on Broadway. Some youths asked him if he wanted them to watch his car, while he was attending the show, but at the time didn't think it was necessary and therefore didn't secure the services of the boys. But when the show was over he found out he had made a mistake in not having a vigilance committee over his car. The car was still there with all its parts excepting that of a motometer, that had an ornamental attachment. Mr. Scherer said losing a part of an automobile when attending a theater, boosted the price of admission considerably.

Not a Laxative

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication. Try it today.

HI-Y CLUB HEARS TALK ON "Y" WEEK

The HI-Y met Wednesday evening with a small attendance, about the smallest this year. There was no basketball nor Bible classes after meeting on account of the sleigh-load. Some twenty couples went for the ride to the Grange.

Due to the inability of the man who was scheduled to speak to appear on account of a heavy cold, Mr. Hall said a few words to the assembly on the Y. M. C. A. and its activities. The "Y" is not a place for basketball and swimming, not a pool room nor a social club, not a Bible class, but all these things together. The one big thing in "Y" work is the bringing of the people into contact with their duties as Christians. Christ has a claim upon every individual, upon his work, his thoughts, his actions. The living up to the ideals set in the life of Christ is the duty of every boy. Every day they are called upon to show their courage to carry out those ideals. They meet temptations everywhere, and if they do not overcome them, they are failing back. The organization called the Y. M. C. A. aims to help in doing this, through its Bible classes through its basketball and through the social gatherings of its members around the pool tables or at other functions. Mr. Hall said that he considered the local organization as failing in its duty to bring before the members the true spirit of Christianity and the responsibility of the followers of that sect. The Lenten season is a time for preparation, and it will be the beginning of the carrying out of that one purpose of the "Y" and HI-Y. The talks at the following meetings will be on subjects hinging around that idea, the discussion classes will indulge in some careful consideration of these duties spoken of, and in other ways the season of Lent will be made a time of preparation for work as a true Christian, so that the points which are so desired to be brought to the attention of boys will be made evident.

SEAGER.

Seager, Feb. 22.—We are glad to note that Mrs. George E. Stewart, who had pneumonia, is very much improved. Mrs. O. A. Todd spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Mary Fairbairn, at Margaretville. O. A. Todd and Bob McCann were Arkville business callers on Saturday. Mrs. Anna Rundell is visiting her brother, George Delamarter, at Prattsburg. Orson Haynes of Haynes Glen, spent Tuesday in Arkville.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

He Must Have Been Irish.

At a dinner party Mr. Jones had been trying to say something nice to his hostess. "What a small appetite you have," "To sit next to you, Mrs. Smith," he replied, "would cause any man to lose his appetite."

And then he wondered why he wasn't invited to the next affair.

The way to stop scandal is never to tell it in the first place. Remember the steam kettle, tho' up to its neck in hot water it continues to sing.

This year like most all others that have gone by, will be just what we make it.

Making money is a fine thing—it is so fine you can't see it.

Why Is This Thus?

The alarm clock jingles on the stand—

She sleeps.

The phone rings out its wild demand—

She sleeps.

The neighbors dance on the floor above—

She sleeps.

The cats outside shriek their midnight love—

She sleeps.

In silence my key unlocks the door—

In stocking feet I tread the floor—

She sleeps.

With noiseless steps I cross the hall.

From the bedroom rings the clarion call—

"John, march right in here and explain why you're coming home at this hour of the morning!"

We have learned that one of these cheese cloth dancing academies has been opened in the Yosemite and it is assumed that there is no objection to letting a mountain peak.

Nothing Else Matters.

Give a girl a string of beads and a pair of earrings and she feels all dressed up.

Worry is cancer of the mind—cut it out!

Every parents these days knows what it costs to keep a girl decently unclad.

The bulldog wins because he hangs on.

"Oh, you skid," remarked the chainless auto as it left the road and turned over.

A firm in Maine has discharged two girls because they used lip sticks and rouge. What is this firm intending to do—hire male help exclusively.

What have we done with all the time saved through the use of the automobile.

Some of the new derby hats look as if they would be quite serviceable, in case a man expected to fall from a second story window head first.

A Touching Matter.

Pastor—"Don't you think I touched them rather deeply this morning?"

Deacon—"I don't know, sir. I haven't counted up yet."

Be Careful What You Say.

In speaking of a person's faults, Pray don't forget your own; Remember those with homes of glass; Should never throw a stone. If we have nothing else to do Than talk of those who sin, 'Tis better to commence at home And from the point begin.

We have no right to judge a man Until he's fairly tried; Should we not like his company We know the world is wide. Some may have faults—and who has not—

The old as well as young? Perhaps we may, for ought we know, Have fifty to their one.

I'll tell you of a better plan— And find it works full well— To try my own defects to cure Ere others' faults I tell; And though I sometimes hope to be No worse than some I know, My own shortcomings bid me let The faults of others go.

Then let us all, when we begin To slander friend or foe, Think of the harm one word may do To those we little know. Remember, curses, sometimes Like little chickens, "roost at home."

Don't speak of others' faults until We have none of our own.

First Study, Then Achieve.

Try thyself unweariedly till thou findest the highest thing thou art capable of doing, faculties and outward circumstances being duly considered; and then do it.—J. Stuart Mill.

NEWBURGH FOLKS RECEIVE PARCELS THEY DID NOT WANT.

To Investigate to See if Parcels Were Sent by Reputable Firm.

The Newburgh News says: Whether clever crooks are using the United States mails in a scheme to defraud or whether a reputable firm has been victimized by fake orders will be discovered as the result of inquiries being made into the receipt here of a considerable number of parcel post packages sent "collect," which were not ordered by the recipients.

A dozen or more of these packages are now in the Newburgh post office, having been refused by the persons to whom they were addressed. Others who accepted them found articles for which they had no use. The packages received carried a postal charge of $1.13, which was paid by those accepting the parcels.

The packages all came from the same firm in Philadelphia. Two theories are advanced. It is thought clever rogues have secured a list of addresses and are sending out by parcel post collect secure in the knowledge that the money for packages accepted will be returned to them before the complaint can be investigated. The other theory is that some reputable firm had advertised a premium for any person sending a given number or orders for their goods and someone has taken a chance, sending in the given number of names, selected at random from the city directory in the hope of getting the premium on receipt of the orders before the fraud is discovered.

At the Kingston post office it was stated that no parcel post packages had been received here which were rejected by the ones to whom they were addressed.

GRAHAMSVILLE.

Grahamsville, Feb. 22.—Floyd Backman and his uncle Chris dehorned cattle for George Gorgon and Mahlon Donovan last week.

Mrs. Euphratus Van Wagner returned home Saturday at Sugar Loaf after visiting relatives at Eureka and on Rocky Hill.

Lewis Ryan spent a few days last week with his brother, Otis, at Sandown.

Mary B. Osterhoudt visited her aunt, Mrs. Emily Porter, one day last week.

John M. Condren keeps the teams busy drawing feed from Ellenville. Lewis Simpson passed through this place from Liberty en route for Lackawack where he had some lumber to haul.

AUSTRALIAN FUR IS POPULAR

Australian fur has never been so popular as it is now and it is most effective in sand-colored tones, especially when fox fur of the same color is used as trimming.

CIRCULAR MODE IS FAVORED

Growth of Fashion Has Been Very Slow, but Consistent—Straight Silhouette Liked.

The circular mode which recently came back to grace modern dress shows no sign of being on the wane. In fact it appears to be gaining in impetus, and many a smart frock of today has a touch of the circular. However, restraint marks its use and there is ingenuity in its application. The sleeve frill that turns up or down at the wrist is one of the simplest forms, and even this is changing to the extent of moving up the arm as far as the elbow.

Skirts show a peculiar choosing in regard to the use of the circular. They are not yet circular in their entirety, but they have circular insets, sometimes one at each side, or, in the Jenny fashion, across the whole front. The circular flounce at the bottom of the skirt is a radical departure from former lines and creates a new silhouette. One cannot positively say that the flounce will "take," as it destroys the straight-line mode that Americans, and the French, too, have clung to so desperately in the face of all discouragements to do otherwise.

The growth of the circular idea has been very slow, but also very consistent. Side by side with this influence, and equally strong, if not stronger, is the straight silhouette, straighter now than ever, with the hips as tightly fitted as possible, the waistline scarcely indicated and the skirt long enough to exaggerate the length and slowness of the form. Greatly attenuated is this new figure. The seeming conflict between the straight and circular types may be amicably settled by the women who will select and wear the garments. Only those of the slender, boyish figure type will be able to insert themselves into the straight, tight frocks, and all others must, perforce, wear some other kind.

VELVET LEADS WINTER MODES

Dark Rich Colors Fashioned Into Street Costumes—Bright Shades for Evening Wear.

Wherever one turns one finds velvet put to most attractive uses. In dark rich colors it is fashioned into street costumes. In brilliant shades it is chosen for evening gowns and wraps. In every possible tone it stands out as the favorite fabric for millinery. Recently the new midwinter fashions in hats made their appearance, and in these there is a strong tendency to use more vivid colorings, especially in the small hats, which one wears with fur or fur-trimmed coats. Several exceedingly smart new models are of panne velvet made on the lines of the awnings becoming tan and covered with chain-stitch embroidery done in silver and gold thread. The effect is charming.

Velveteen is once more upon fashion's horizon, and is used for skirts which are designed for wear with the new short coats of fur. It is an attractive mode, and one which will probably be a successful one.

Another way of using velveteen is for a short box coat worn with a skirt. In checked wool laid in fine knife plaits. A very attractive costume of this type consists of a coat of brown velveteen and a skirt of brown and tan wool.

Bows for Hats.

Not in many seasons has the ribbon or velvet bow been so popular for hat trimming. These are large and small, high and flat, but they give a decidedly youthful and trim appearance to street millinery.

White Furs Are Youthful.

The "little bunny" look that results from the white fur jaquette appears to be favored, for many wearers are seen in models of ermine, white caracul and rabbit. The effect is especially youthful.

Man to Be Watched.

The man who is really good never gives one the impression that he knows he is good. The man who tells you how good he is, like the man who boasts of his honesty, may be a pretty good counterfeiter, but he certainly isn't legal tender.

ASSOCIATION NATIONAL ADVERTISERS
New Stock Exchange Building, Philadelphia

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB. 23, 1923.

Last summer witnessed a tremendous building boom, but this year's construction promises to eclipse the 1922 record. More homes and better housing facilities are imperatively needed. Few other influences would contribute so much to popular content.

Senator Levy would take care of the lawyers, while the good things are being passed around, and has introduced a bill increasing costs and extra allowances in lawsuits to double the amounts now allowed. The only exception is upon certain motions and references on which the amount is now $10, which Senator Levy would increase to $25.

Senator Love is determined that primary elections shall have attention called to them and has introduced a bill providing that all cities and towns in the state must enact ordinances commanding that church and fire bells be rung for not less than 15 minutes before the polls open. The bill fails to say who will pay the bell ringers or what will happen to the cities and villages that fail to adopt the ordinance prescribed.

The heinous offense of blacking boots after 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon is made punishable by a fine of $5, and for a second offense a fine of not less than $10 or more than $25, in a bill introduced by Assemblyman Burchill. A second offender may also be imprisoned for not less than 10 nor more than 25 days. Bootblacking done in hotels of a certain size, on ferry boats or in railroad stations is exempted from punishment, it apparently being the opinion of Mr. Burchill that the sanctity of the Lord's day cannot enter into these places.

The Literary Digest throws a few fits under the heading, "America aloof as Europe burns." The only trouble with this is that it is not true. America is not aloof. We have been aiding Europe by extending commercial credits to the amount of more than a billion dollars a year since the close of the war. We have sent shiploads of supplies to the hungry in Russia. Our Red Cross has given aid wherever needed. Our government has deferred collection of either principal or interest on the debts due us. Great Britain alone having paid a part of the interest due from that nation. Moreover, our secretary of state has pointed out to France and Germany the only practical means of settling the reparations dispute without resort to force—the appointment of a commission of prominent business men who will survey the resources of Germany and determine her ability to pay. The United States has held aloof in only one respect—it has refused to become embroiled in the feuds of Europe.

COLORADO'S POET.

When it was announced that Mrs. Nellie Burgett Miller had been appointed poet laureate of Colorado by Governor Sweet, it was only natural to suppose that she would be expected to write a poem of congratulation whenever there was a marriage or an increase in the "royal family" residing in the governor's mansion at Denver, but such hasty misapprehensions have been promptly corrected by the lady laureate. In a letter to the New York Times Mrs. Miller says that she looks upon her new office "wholly as an opportunity of service to the creative work that is being produced under such tremendous odds in the west." (Why the "odds" are more "tremendous" there than elsewhere she does not state.) Of her program, in addition to collecting the published works of Colorado writers, she says:

I shall take the time to answer every letter from would-be writers, furnishing my own postage, by the way, directing them, if the work is bad, to help upon technique and advising them that only through study may these defects be overcome. If

It is good, it will be my good pleasure to give it encouragement and help in its development.

In other words, she will do for nothing (or for her official salary) what the literary correspondence schools do for a stated fee. If Colorado's taxpayers are willing, this may give encouragement where it is deserved in perhaps about one case out of a thousand.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. What is meant by a ganoid fish? I saw a picture labelled that way.
2. What is the smallest animal in the world? Scarcest, and what does it eat?
3. Can any birds but nuthatches work head downward?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Is there any difference in size between golden and ruby crowned kinglets? Can I tell which is which by size?

Hardly. If you measured a quantity of specimens you would find some golden crowns fully half an inch smaller than small ruby crowns. Bailey gives golden crowns from 3.15 to 4.55 inches, and ruby crowns as 3.75 to 4.60 inches. Thus a large golden crown might be bigger than a small ruby. The head patch on the male golden crown has a deep black border across back of head, which might help distinguish, but the grayish-green upper coats are rather similar.

2. Are the veins in a butterfly's wings really veins?
Not in the sense ours are. Insect wings in general have these wire-like veins, which are really compressed or thickened lines of cuticle inside the wing. When the winged insect comes out of its pupa-case, its crumpled wings are expanded by air that pushes through fine air tubes in the wings. These tracheae run inside the thickened cuticle veins, and dry up as soon as their work of pumping out the wings is done. The cuticle tubing remains, and gives a support for the delicate membranous wings.

3. How long does it take to grow a ten pound fish from an egg?
Length of time would so vary with conditions of food supply, temperature, etc., no reliable general answer can be given. Probably many years, judging by captive specimens' growth; though captives grow slower than free fishes.

American Tree Association Gives Free Information and Seeks Larger Membership.

A million trees planted in 1923 is the objective of the American Tree association just organized by Charles Lathrop Park, former president of the American Forestry association. The new association will make anyone who plants a tree and registers it with the association a member. There are no cash dues, and there is only one way to join the association, and that is to plant a tree. The association will send a certificate of membership after the trees have been planted, and will give tree planting instruction to any who ask for it.

Mr. Park has long been identified with public welfare work, particularly in relation to forestry, having for many years been president of the American Forestry association. During the war Mr. Park organized and directed the work of the National War Garden commission. Last fall, he, together with the secretary, P. S. Ridsdale, and Directors Dr. Henry S. Drinker, John Hays Hammond, Charles F. Quincey and Standish Clark, resigned from the American Forestry association.

Response to the call for tree planters has been remarkable. P. S. Ridsdale, the secretary of the new organization, says. Every one who planted a tree in 1922 is eligible to membership. From Louisville, Ky., 3,000 members have been received from one bank that gives depositors trees to plant. The national tree-planting plan has been taken up in a number of schools, and this feature has proved of the highest educational service in teaching children the value of trees. The planting of memorial trees, roads of remembrance, memorial parks and memorial forests is going forward in a remarkable way, Mr. Ridsdale adds.

Mr. Park is continuing the sending of millions of American tree seeds to England, France, Italy and Belgium to help to reforest war devastated areas in those countries. As a result of this work millions of American trees are already growing in western Europe.

Another educational campaign of the association is the "Make Washington the National Arboretum of the Country." The hub of the idea was the planting of the armistice elms by Mrs. Warren G. Harding a year ago. Seeds from the famous Dumont Kennedy elm at Crawfordsville, Ind., have been received for planting at the Lincoln Memorial. This spring will see the planting of memorial trees by several state societies in Washington, the trees to come from the home states.

Enduring Value.

A great poem is the fountain forever overflowing with the waters of wisdom and delight; and after one person and one age has exhausted all its divine effluence which their peculiar relations enable them to share, another and yet another succeeds, and new relations are ever developed, the source of an unforeseen and an unconceived delight.—Sir Philip Sidney.

HOW

OLD FORM OF WINDMILL HAS BEEN IMPROVED ON.

Up to within the last few years, the windmill has remained practically much the same and unimproved since prehistoric times. Recently it has been taken on a new and remarkable development, assuming the character of a "wind turbine" for producing electricity.

In one form, as thus modified, it is a cylindrical arrangement of steel slats placed vertically and at an angle so as to catch the wind. This forms the outer part, which is fixed and immovable. The wind, entering through the slats, causes the inner part to revolve, the latter having a central axis set at top and bottom upon ball-bearings.

Thus delicately poised, the inner part revolves in response to the slightest breeze, and, as it turns, it drives machinery by which the energy developed is converted into electricity. A windmill of this kind, with three or more superposed "stories" and one central shaft, is capable of delivering 800 horsepower.

The old-fashioned type of windmill utilizes only about 17 per cent of the power of the air currents caught by its vanes. It is thoroughly unscientific. In Denmark today properly constructed wind motors produce more than 70 horsepower with a good wind.

The Danish wind motors, however, are built on a principle wholly different from that above described. They have vanes resembling in form airplane propellers, somewhat modified, these being usually of sheet iron and five in number.

A windmill of this type automatically turns its vanes edgewise to the wind when the latter blows too hard, thus insuring the safety of the apparatus. In the other type the same object is gained through the fact that not more than a certain amount of air per second can enter between the vertical slats, and thus a limit is set to the speed at which the inner part of the contrivance can revolve.

How Grass Grows.

The rings of a tree grow from the inside out; that is, the inside rings are the oldest and the outside rings the newest. This can be easily proven by the greater percentage of sap or life-giving fluid found in the outer ring and promoting its growth.

How Airplane Has Improved.

In the first days of the Wright airplane, 19 years ago, the speed of their machines was about 30 miles an hour. Recently the airplane has touched the mark of 212 miles an hour.

Opinion Held by Too Many.

"Something ought to be done about everything," said an ironic philosopher. But what accounts for so many thinking they are Hamlets and exclaiming with him: "The time is out of joint. O, cursed spite, that I was born to set it right."

MOTION PICTURES IN COLORS

How Process, Developed by an American, Has Been Brought to High Point of Success.

A great defect of moving pictures has been the lack of color. The staring black and white of the ordinary photographic film is tiresome to the taste and fatiguing to the eye.

Various experiments have been made in coloring moving picture films, but none had been very satisfactory until the problem was taken up by Dr. Daniel F. Comstock of the department of physics and optics in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In association with Dr. Herbert Kalms, an electrochemist of distinction, Doctor Comstock has perfected a process based upon the chromatic optics of color photography, by which the colors of nature are reproduced in the film and may be thrown on the screen by any projecting lantern. The inventors call this process "technicolor," and a technicolor film play is now running at the Rialto theater, in New York, and attracting the attention of artists as well as of the general public.—From the Outlook.

How Radio Goes to Prison.

To be apprehended by means of radio and then to be entertained by it in jail is the ironical outlook for lawbreakers in Washington, D. C. The inmates there may stretch out on their prison cots and listen to the stirring strains of the United States Navy band, the daily police reports on stolen automobiles, and perhaps they may even speculate on the ease with which the radio waves penetrate the stone walls of their prison. A loop aerial is used to catch the waves for the receiving set. After using ear phones to tune in, the operator switches the programs onto a loud speaker placed in the rotunda of the jail; by this means the inmates in the distant cells hear the entertainment plainly. Often, however, Capt. W. L. Peak allows the 320 men to leave their cells and come down to the auditorium.—Popular Radio.

How Lamp Carbons Are Obtained.

Carbons of high grade are, it is said, obtained from tar by a Swedish process. The powdered carbon is pressed to form electric light carbons, or larger sizes for electro-chemical work. The method is based on the fact that finely divided carbon makes up a large percentage of the composition of tar and is what gives the black color, this being due to the carbon particles suspended in an otherwise dense and transparent yellowish brown liquid.

The Course He Took.

The prison visitor sighed: "How sad! How sad that you are in here, you, who went through three colleges! What course did you take?" "Me!" said the convict. "I went in over the second-story window sills and out the kitchen door; but I only got $37 in the three of 'em."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

House Cleaning Labor Cut in Two By Marvelous Discovery

Just a little of the wonderful new preparation, NACO, dropped in the scrub brush, and your work is at once cut in half, while the results are twice as thorough and satisfactory. NACO cuts the grime and grease like a knife, enabling you to take it off with the least possible scrubbing and rubbing. By softening the water, NACO greatly increases the cleaning action of your soap.

Floors, tiling, linoleum, oilcloth, walls and woodwork are made spotlessly clean and fresh. Washbowl, bathtub and sink are cleansed and sweetened in a jiffy. Yet NACO is remarkably efficient in its work and an excellent disinfectant and deodorant, the new liquid is as harmless in its action as pure soap.

As a washday help in the tub, NACO is without a peer. Never have you seen your white linen and white linen and cotton garments so lustreously white, so spotlessly clean. Fruit stains, coffee stains, perspiration stains—even ink stains—dissolve and disappear. Dirt and grime are quickly loosened and made easy for the soap to carry off.

You can get NACO at your grocer's—50 cents for a generous sized bottle.—Advertisement.

This is the last week for the bargain table. 3c, 5c, 10c, 15c, 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50. Most of the the articles worth double. China ware, baskets, fancy goods of all kinds.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Child's Hair With

If you want to keep your child's hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Multisified in a cup of glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The latherer rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your drugist gives you Multisified.—Advertisement.

Painful, Hacking Coughs quickly broken up by taking Linonine as soon as you start to cough. This famous far seed oil emulsion overcomes weakness brought on by colds, restores vitality and builds up the system. It gives quick relief from the terrible coughing and soothes and heals the inflamed membrane. Even stubborn bronchitis yields to its curative qualities. At the first sign of a cough or cold, take Linonine and prevent serious sickness.

TO AID DISABLED VETERANS

Mrs. C. R. Edwards, Boston, Wife of Major General, Helps Unfortunate Men Help Themselves.

Helping the disabled war veteran to help himself is the hobby of Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, wife of Major General Edwards, who commanded the Twenty-sixth division in France, and a prominent member of the American Legion auxiliary.

Mrs. Edwards.

One of Mrs. Edwards' most important achievements has been the founding of an exchange in Boston where disabled veterans may sell the products they manufacture during the long days spent in hospitals recovering from war wounds and disabilities.

Starting April 10 with a capital of $2,000 contributed by friends, Mrs. Edwards hired an ex-service man as manager and opened the exchange in a downtown location. Success attended the venture from the start and it has put thousands of dollars in the pockets of needy World war heroes.

The exchange takes all articles on consignment and when they are sold, the money is forwarded to the hospital or to the individual patient at the end of the month.

The disabled men have exhibited an unusual versatility in the articles produced for sale, according to Mrs. Edwards. "One boy makes little canoes and paints them in pretty colors," Mrs. Edwards stated. "In one month we have sold $75 worth of canoes ranging in price from 85 cents to $1.50. String belts, girdles and curtain pulls are very popular. A very good market has been developed for a veteran who makes hand-woven homespun. Jute rugs for piazzas and woven rugs for bathrooms are also favorites. All kinds of hammered jewelry and leather covers and cases are good sellers."

Mrs. Edwards' exchange has been authorized by the national convention of the American Legion auxiliary to sell articles made by veterans in hospitals of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia.

HE IS VETERAN OF TWO WARS

Wisconsin Legion Man, New National Vice Commander, Was in Spanish-American and World Wars.

Dr. Edward J. Barrett of Sheboygan, Wis. national vice commander of the American Legion, is a veteran of both the Spanish-American and World wars.

Dr. E. J. Barrett.

Born in Wooster, O., Doctor Barrett was graduated from the University of Wooster and later from the school of medicine at the University of Cincinnati. He served as house physician at the Palmer House in Chicago until the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, when he was commissioned a major in the Second regiment, United States volunteer engineers, remaining with that organization during its stay in Honolulu.

During the Philippine insurrection, Doctor Barrett was assistant surgeon of the Forty-first volunteer infantry, remaining in the islands until 1901. Thousands of wounded American doughboys remember the work of Doctor Barrett when he was in command of Fox Hills hospital at Staten Island, and later when he was chief of hospitals at the port of embarkation at Hoboken, N. J., during the World war.

Doctor Barrett commanded the Legion post at Sheboygan in 1920 and served as commander of the Wisconsin department and national executive committee in 1921-1922, in addition to his work as a member of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee.

AUXILIARY DOES GREAT WORK

Department of Minnesota One of the Most Active Organizations; Membership is Strong.

The department of Minnesota has many distinctive features which mark it as one of the leading organizations of the American Legion auxiliary in social activities, welfare work, and organization plans. The auxiliary membership of the Minnesota auxiliary is 80 per cent that of the Legion, and all present efforts are being concentrated in making that membership 100 per cent.

A unique plan for bringing the "bachelor" posts to time, has been conceived by the "married posts and auxiliaries." Their location will be broadcast by radio all over the state of Minnesota and the auxiliary will mobilize and march upon their strongholds, not with sword and gun, but with the same tender devotion bestowed upon the boys in 1917 and 1918, and will prove to the refractory posts the utter futility of longer opposing the inevitable.

The poppies sold last year by the Minnesota auxiliary members were made by the hospitalized ex-service men, under direction of the auxiliary committee appointed for the purpose, at a profit of more than seven thousand dollars to the disabled. The state hospitalization committee made the statement that the good accomplished in lifting the morale of these men by giving them this work to do could not be measured in money.

Minnesota auxiliary has a welfare fund named for the first department president of the auxiliary in the United States, Doctor Helen Hughes Heilscher of Mankato, Minnesota, who is now serving on the national hospitalization committee. This fund, amounting to $5,000 last year, was practically exhausted during the year but the committee is constantly being reimbursed for these expenditures.

Minnesota auxiliary is fostering another project, which as yet has not been considered by any other state; that of "Veteransville" where ex-service men are helped to begin life anew by being assisted in buying land on the installment plan. The auxiliary intends that this project shall be the best of its kind in the United States and will encourage, support and assist in every way whenever necessary.

Minnesota auxiliary is proud to be a part of an organization, with a national president who is internationally known, because of her ability and accomplishments, and who has given up all other interests to serve the auxiliary for one year. Theodore Roosevelt said of Doctor Kate Waller Barrett: "She is one of the most useful women in the United States."

PRAISE FOR YOUNG AMERICAN

Legion Americanism Director Warm in Compliments for Philip Mosely, Essay Winner.

Philip E. Mosely of Westfield, Mass., winner in his state of the American Legion's national essay contest on the subject "How Can the American Legion Best Serve the Nation?" has received the praise of Garland W. Powell, Legion Americanism director, for his services in Americanizing foreigners in his home town.

Mosely was valedictorian of his high school class and was never absent nor tardy. Out of school hours Mosely raised chickens, fired furnaces and worked in stores until he had saved about $600 besides providing all his own spending money.

Entering Harvard college last fall, Mosely obtained a scholarship which pays his tuition for the first year. "The record of Mr. Mosely is typical of the high character of the state winners in our essay contest," Mr. Powell stated. "The American Legion is proud of its younger brothers who have done so much to carry out its ideals."

State-winning essays will be judged in the national contest by John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education; E. E. Brown, former national commissioner of education, and S. S. McClure, the publisher. National prizes are: First, $750; second, $500; third, $250; the money to be used as scholarships. They were awarded by Sanford MacNider, past national commander of the Legion.

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

GREAT RHINOCEROS

"I am indeed a great creature," said the Indian Rhinoceros. "Of course Mr. Black Rhinoceros is a great creature too, and so is Mr. Sumatran Rhinoceros. He has a very hard name to say."

"Mr. African White Rhinoceros is a handsome creature, they say, but he doesn't come to the zoo. Perhaps one will come sometime, but there isn't one around now and so I cannot tell anything about him."

He lives in a different part of the world from the part where I came from when I was free. As you can tell by my name I came from India, which is far, far, far away from here."

"I have one horn and I think that is enough. I do not ask for more than one horn and it is perhaps as well that I don't ask for more than one."

"I don't suppose I could get another horn just for the asking and I don't believe in asking for the impossible."

"My one horn is a good stout horn and I am well pleased with it. I have fine thick skin. Some creatures may prefer thin skin, but I like to have thick skin and so I have it!"

"I don't suppose I could change and have thin skin either even if I asked for it, but I wouldn't ask for it as I do not want to be different from every other Indian Rhinoceros. No, no indeed!"

"I love green things to eat and I like swamps and watery places for my home."

"But I do not believe in making a fuss when I'm in a different sort of a place."

"Now, some creatures always keep wishing for something different from what they have, but not the rhinoceros."

"I keep well here in the zoo and I do not bother the keeper. He is good to me and so I am good to him. I do as he asks me to do."

"Many wild creatures come from India, which was my home. The Bison comes from there and he is a creature like the Buffalo or Bison that is in this country. But he is a cross, wild fellow."

"He looks quite friendly but he isn't! No, he is wild and behaves very badly. He is a relation to the Water Buffalo and the Water Buffalo also has a bad temper. Gracious, but those creatures can get mad!"

"I do not waste my time getting mad. I do not need to do anything so foolish."

"Anyone who knows anything knows that the Rhinoceros is just as much a king as the lion is. Yes, some of my family have called themselves kings because they are like kings. They are mighty and strong and powerful and are not afraid of others."

"Think of the Difference."

"I am not afraid of anyone. But just because I do not feel afraid of anyone I do not feel that I have to act like a cross-patch here in the zoo with the keeper."

"Some of my family belong to circuses. They are admired a great deal. Sometimes they are thought ugly and I suppose we are ugly."

"But do you know what I think of our ugliness?"

"What?" asked the other animals in the zoo.

"I call our ugliness great ugliness. I call it beautiful ugliness. We're so big and so wonderful that we're really beautiful ugly."

"That is what I think, and I feel quite sure I am right, for I've heard that the keeper agrees with me too."

"I'd hate to be a little sparrow. Sometimes they come flying about outside my house and tank. They're little and I'm great, but then I do not have to bother about that thought for I am not a sparrow but a rhinoceros."

"Think of the difference! Ah, there is a difference indeed."

"A sparrow cannot be compared to a rhinoceros, for though one can fly and the other can't, the other is great, great and gloriously ugly!"

"And I am afraid of no one for I would not consider it great to be afraid and timid!"

Most Wonderful Thing.

The teacher of a primary class was trying to show the children the difference between the natural and man-made wonders and was finding it hard.

"What," she asked, "do you think is the most wonderful thing man ever made?"

A little girl, whose parents were obviously harassed by the questions of ways and means, replied as solemnly as the proverbial judge:

"A living for a family."

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

A salad which is especially good at this season and of materials found in the home and market is: Peach and Grapefruit Salad.—On heart leaves of lettuce arrange halves of canned peaches, fill the centers with finely-shredded celery and arrange sections of grapefruit around the peaches; sprinkle with chopped pecan meats and serve with the following dressing: Beat until firm one-half cupful of cream, add paprika, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Place a spoonful of this dressing on the peach and garnish with a candied cherry.

Oatmeal Bread.—Take one-half cupful of boiling water, let stand until lukewarm, then add one-fourth of a cupful of molasses, one teaspoonful of salt. Dissolve one-fourth of a yeast cake in a little water, stir in all the flour it is possible to put into the mixture, using a spoon; let rise over night or until light. Pour into a bread pan and let rise until twice its size. Bake in a moderate oven for two hours.

Shirred Eggs With Bacon.—Into ramekins, brushed with butter, place a tablespoonful of cooked bacon, break an egg into each cup, sprinkle with seasoning and set into the oven to bake just long enough to set the egg.

Hashed Brown Potatoes.—Cut cold boiled potatoes into small pieces, using two cupfuls, season with salt and pepper, cook three minutes in one-third of a cupful of bacon fat, stirring constantly. Let stand a few seconds to brown underneath; fold like an omelet and serve on a hot platter garnished with parsley.

Raisin Gruel.—Take a dozen large raisins, seed, place in a double boiler and pour over them a pint of boiling water; cook for an hour. Strain off the water and thicken it with one teaspoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a tablespoonful of milk; stir constantly while adding, cook ten minutes or longer, add salt and sugar to taste, let stand until cool, then add one-half cupful of good milk.

COTTEKILL

Cottekill, Feb. 22.—At the regular meeting of the Jr. O. U. A. M., held in its lodge rooms on Saturday evening, February 17, the following were initiated: Charles Signor, Burt Roosa, Harry Dewitt, Everett Barringer, Walter Pine, Walter Schafer and Albert Donnestad. The newly elected officers, Uriah Barringer, councillor; Andrew Pine, vice councillor; J. M. Short, financial secretary; J. M. Schafer, recording secretary; Burt Kelder, warden; R. Terwilliger, conductor; R. A. Stall, outside guard and A. Terwilliger, inside guard, will be installed on Saturday evening, March 17, at which time there are a number of out of town speakers expected, among them being three from Brooklyn.

O. H. Beach, who has been ill with measles for a few weeks, is again able to be around and expects to resume his duties with the N. Y. O. & W. at Cotteskill on Monday.

The condition of J. H. Locke remains about the same.

The roads still remain in a drifted condition although sleighs manage to get through. There has not been an auto venture through since E. S. Craft's delivery truck stalled in the snow and had to be towed in.

Several from here attended the centennial celebration of Mt. Horeb Chapter of Masons at Kingston on Wednesday evening.

The G. C. A. and the N. P. U. classes will hold an entertainment and play in the very near future, notice of which will appear in this paper.

F. Osterhout of Binnewater has moved in W. Conner's house. J. M. Schafer spent Wednesday at Kingston.

Miss Amy Donnestad of Kingston spent one day the past week at her home here.

S. A. Van Wageningen of Ellenville passed through this village one day the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Snyder of Kingston spent Sunday with the former's parents here.

SUNDOWN.

Sundown, Feb. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Otis Ryan and family and Mrs. Milo Terbush visited at Ralph Countryman's last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Post have been spending a week at their cottage, Sundown Lodge. They have enjoyed the big snow and winter weather.

John H. Brooks's hay and stock barn roof collapsed and fell in last week but no stock was injured.

Lewis Ryan is visiting his brother Otis at this place.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Terbush are sorry to hear they intend leaving the J. J. Humberts cottage and go to Napanoch, where Mr. Terbush intends building a house where he purchased two building lots some time ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Countryman intend taking the position Mr. Terbush held with J. J. Humbert and expect to move some time in March.

HAD TO WAIT FOR "BOND BOY" SAYS JONES

Editor, The Freeman:
I wish to correct an error in Thursday's paper relative to the fire in the projection booth at Keeney's Theatre. The show was not resumed, but was started on time at nine o'clock so that patrons who attended the first performance and wanted to see the finish of the "Bond Boy" would find it necessary to sit through the entire performance until the end of the second performance.

Cosackie Fire.

Fire was discovered Tuesday in a bedroom in the home of Martin Brooks, Cosackie. Mrs. Brooks threw the burning bed clothing out of the window and saved the building. Afterwards it was found that $200 was missing. It is believed the burglar fired the building to hide the theft.

AVOID PESTS IN PEAS AND BEANS

Large Part of Loss From Weevils Can Be Prevented by Using Some Precaution.

INSECTS VIGOROUS BREEDERS

Infections Can Be Quickly and Effectively Stamped Out by Fumigation With Carbon Disulphide or Hydrocyanic Gas.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)
If farmers will plant weevil-free seeds, harvest beans, peas and corn as soon as possible, treat the crop to kill weevils and store it where seeds can be protected from infestation by weevils spreading from infested seeds, a large part of the loss from these insects can be prevented, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1275, Weevils in Beans and Peas, by E. A. Beck, entomologist, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. Copies may be obtained upon application to the department at Washington, D. C.

Weevils Are Injurious.
These weevils, which never attack corn and wheat, and but rarely infest velvet beans, soy beans or vetches, are particularly injurious because they can breed generation after generation in dried seeds in storage. During the hottest summer weather, one generation requires only 18 to 30 days for development. The average total number of eggs laid by an individual during her life is about 100. Infested seeds in bulk usually heat, thus producing temperature and moisture conditions most favorable for the rapid development and vigorous breeding of weevils.

The belief that adult weevils have "developed from the germ" inside the seed is erroneous. The small round holes often observed in seeds are made by the grubs of the weevil, which upon hatching from eggs laid in or on the pods, burrow into the seeds by gnawing a hole no larger than a pin prick. Later the adults emerge from the seeds.

Stamp Out Infestations.
Infestations in beans and peas can be quickly and effectively stamped out by fumigation with carbon disulphide, carbon tetrachloride, or hydrocyanic gas, and by means of heat or cold storage. Weevils can be prevented from breeding in storage by mixing dust or air-slaked lime with the seeds. Concerted action by a community of growers has been known greatly to reduce weevil infestations and is recommended unservedly for consideration in commercial bean-growing areas.

WINTER ATTENTION TO DUCKS

Do Not Expose to Cold Any More Than Necessary—Corn, Wheat and Oats Are Best.

Ducks, if perfectly healthy, can stand much cold, but, do not expose them to severe weather more than is necessary. Ducks should be kept dry during the winter. Give good drinking water but it is not necessary to give water to swim in; in fact, during winter it is not advisable. The best grains to use during the winter are: Equal parts corn, wheat and oats. A mash could also be given at noon each day of the above grain finely ground. In spring add 15 per cent beef scraps to the mash ration.

Keep Ducks Dry in Winter.

ter it is not advisable. The best grains to use during the winter are: Equal parts corn, wheat and oats. A mash could also be given at noon each day of the above grain finely ground. In spring add 15 per cent beef scraps to the mash ration.

SIMPLE DEHORNING METHOD

When Calf Is Few Days Old Apply Solution of Concentrated Lye—Use Rag on Stick.

When a calf is a few days old, clip hair from the horn knobs and apply vasoline on the skin around them for a few inches. Then apply a solution of one ounce of concentrated lye dissolved in two ounces of water. Use a rag on a stick. Allow to dry and make intermittent applications, allowing each to dry. Allow the lye solution to remain for about thirty minutes, then wash with a dilute solution of vinegar.

MAKING FARM IMPROVEMENTS

No Better Time Than During Winter and Early Spring Months for This Work.

Many improvements on farm are continually running lower and need repairing, just as an automobile needs to be worked on occasionally to keep it in running order. There is no better time than the winter and early spring months for this work.

MEETINGS OF THE FARM BUREAU

The Farm Bureau has just completed arrangements for holding a series of six community meetings to be held in the county starting next week.

I. F. Hall of the Farm Management Department of Cornell University will speak on the subjects of rural economics. One of his talks will be a chart lecture on farm prices for the past 100 years and the probably future trend of farm prices.

The schedule is as follows:
February 26th—Ashbury, Grange
Hall.
February 27th—Hurley, Town
Hall.
February 28th—Mt. Marion,
Church Hall.
March 1st—New Paltz, Grange
Hall.
March 2nd—Kerhonkson, K. of P.
Hall.
March 3rd—Montela, Church
Hall.

All of the above meetings will be held in the morning and afternoon, starting at 10:20 a. m., with the exception of Mt. Marion, which will be an afternoon and evening session.
Local arrangements have been made by the various committees to have dinner served.

At each meeting the election of the local 1923 Farm Bureau committee for each community will take place.

The Home Bureau will hold a women's session at each one of the communities with the exception of New Paltz.

TIRED HOUSEKEEPERS WILL WANT TO HEAR DR. SHERMAN

A week of Farm and Home Institutes will be held beginning February 26. Dr. Florence A. Sherman of the State Department of Education at Albany will be the speaker at the Home Bureau sessions. Her topic will be "The Care of the Feet and General Posture."

A great deal of our tiredness is caused by wrong posture and aching feet. Dr. Sherman is a specialist on these lines and you ought not to miss the opportunity to hear her.

The schedule is as follows:

Ashbury, Grange Hall—February
26th, at 2 p. m.
Hurley, Church Hall—February
27th, at 2 p. m.
Mt. Marion, Church Hall—February 28th, at 2 p. m.
Clintondale, Grange Hall—March
1st, at 2 p. m.
Kerhonkson, Pythian Hall—March
2nd, at 2 p. m.
Montela, Church Hall—March
3rd, at 2 p. m.

In all these places, except Clinton-dale, the Farm Bureau will have a meeting too, so that it will be easy to get to the meetings. In most of these places, dinner or supper will be served by the ladies.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Simple Pretty Gown.

4123—Crepe de chine, kahha or Georgette could be used for this dress. The underskirt is a one piece model, and like the overdress is in slip on style. Stitchery, embroidery or braiding would be effective for decoration.

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 7½ yards of one material 44 inches wide. The width of the skirt at the foot is 23½ yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout,
N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps for our up-to-date fall and winter catalogue, containing 550 designs of Ladies' and Misses' and Children's Patterns, a concise and comprehensive articles on dressmaking also

THE AMERICAN MOLASSES CO.
OF NEW YORK

HE WAS WALLICK BUT NOT ELLSWORTH.

Home County Magazine Recalls Rondout Actor.

In the March number of the Home
County Magazine is printed an article under the caption "For Your Memory," which tells of the burning of Sampson's Opera House, which stood on the site of Freeman
Square, now the home of The Freeman Publishing Company. It states that on the night the opera house was burned, January 3, 1884,
"James H. Wallick, who was a former Ponckhockie boy, was playing Jesse James, the Bandit," and further states that "Wallick's correct name was Ellsworth." This later statement is incorrect, as his correct name was Henry Wheeler, known by his friends as "Hank Wheeler." He was a member of the "Canal Rangers," a regiment that served in part of the Civil War, and Enoch J.
Nichols of this city, who later was a member of the Old Twentieth, also enlisted in the "Canal Rangers."
Wheeler came from Old Hurley,
where he lived with the DuMont family before the Civil War. His mother died in Ponckhockie, and in later years when her son, "James H. Wallick," became wealthy from from circus and theatrical ventures, he had her body removed to Orange county, where he owned a large stock farm near Middletown.

"The Dairy Farm" was the last play presented by Mr. Wallick, it being written by Elinor Merion, the scenes of the play being laid in Old Hurley village. While supervising the erection of the scenery for "The Dairy Farm" on the stage of the Kingston Opera House a piece of scenery fell and one of his hands was injured, blood poisoning resulting, it being primarily the cause for his death.

Mary Anderson in the play "Ingomar," was the opening attraction at Sampson's rebuilt opera house, and Isaac T. Mesereau and W. H. Becker had the program privilege which they sprayed with DuBois's Uster
Cologne, a perfume made by the late
Joseph DuBois on North Front street. The program was printed on pink or rose colored paper, but the perfuming was a rank failure as the coloring or pink sizing on the paper and the cologne did not work out as expected, and the result was an odor which cannot be described.
From a financial standpoint, the publishers were satisfied as they had a surplus in money left after paying for the printing of the program.

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, Feb. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Gerow Van Wyck of Kingston, are visiting at the home of his par-and Mrs. Fred Schoonmaker of Troy.

She has been named Kathryn Freda.
Both Mr. and Mrs. Schoonmaker before their marriage were from this vicinity.

Mrs. Isaac Sutton, son and daughter spent last Wednesday with Mr.
and Mrs. H. W. Sutton at Clinton-dale.
A few of the neighbors gave Mr.
and Mrs. Charles G. Shay a little surprise by gathering at their home on Monday evening, February 19. It was the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening, and all present enjoyed the evening, wishing
Mr. and Mrs. Shay many more years of happiness.

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, Feb. 22.—Mrs. Cath-

WHAT WOULDN'T CONGRESS DO?

the prophecies it contained could not have come true because they already had happened. Mrs. Humphrey Ward's book of thirty years ago was widely read, discussed and criticized, and was denounced because it told the story of an attack on the Book of Daniel.

Today a book widely read is Max Nordau's new book on the subject of the evolution of man and the origin of monarchies. The first three chapters of Nordau's latest book is simply a bitter arraignment of the church and clergy, and the balance is a discussion of morals which instead of giving man credit for any innate moral feeling discussed morals based on cats on a back fence. Nordau does not attack the Book of Daniel as not having been inspired by God, but he simply attacks the existence of God. Such is the change in popular literature brought about in thirty years by the swinging of the pendulum.

Taking from his pocket a small, leather-covered book, Dr. Giles said he had carried it wherever he went for many years and had read it so often he almost knew it by heart backwards. The little book was almost worn out, and recently his wife had tried to patch it up, but still he carried it because next to The Bible, he considered it the most sacred book the American people could have. The book was written 134 years ago—long before the Victorian Era, which had produced many important literary masterpieces—it was the Constitution of the United States.

"I love that little book for two reasons," said Dr. Giles. "It tells the United States Senate they may talk and filibuster as much as they please, but they cannot take away the seven inalienable rights of American citizens. It tells the House of Representatives they, too, may talk as much as they choose, but they must not add to the seven inalienable rights of American citizens."

"Great Britain is the mother of more democracies than any other nation, but she has no written Constitution, and the government can be changed only by a royal decree. Our Congress may have a tariff bloc, an agricultural bloc, a bonus bloc, an agricultural bloc, but Congress cannot invade the inalienable rights of American citizens. What would happen to our liberties in fifteen years if the Constitution did not tell the legislative branches they must not invade the sacred circle of American citizens' rights? It is what the Constitution declines to allow senators and representatives to do that commands my admiration."

"When you look at a picture of Athens or Carthage, you are looking always at the pictures of ruins, because democracies and autocracies have been fatal, have never survived. That document in my hands allows but two privileges to the American people—to vote for a president every four years and for legislation every two years. There is only one democracy—Switzerland, where the people gather to make their own laws. Would that be possible in America? Could all the people gather at Chicago, or St. Louis, or San Francisco, or anywhere else? No, ours is a representative government."

"What is this Constitution all about? Why, it says, 'We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.'"

"Sixty-one years ago we lost a million men in order to preserve that Union. It is well we did, for if we had had two nations instead of one nation of forty-eight states, we would tonight be paying your taxes to Berlin instead of paying them in the city of Kingston."

"This constitution guarantees to every American citizen his rights to personal property, which are rent, wages, interest, profits, private ownership of property and capitalization of industry. Russia has eliminated all these, and—say it frankly—Russia has gone to hell. Let any set of teachers and college professors just give an impression that we have outgrown our constitution and need a new form of government, and within five years you will have an army of propagandists going through the land preaching revolution and promising that if we change our form of government we will enter the millennium. And so we will, but it will be a Russian millennium."

"If you are Catholics, be loyal to your church and you will be loyal to the constitution; if you are Jews, be Jews of Ezekiel and Isaac and loyal to them, and you will be loyal to the constitution; if you are Protestants, be loyal to the Protestant church and you will be loyal to the constitution."

"We have three classes of people in this country: masters of reality, slaves of reality and dupes of unreality. Washington was the premier among masters of reality, and Lincoln was second; they had a direct course with an object in view, and they followed it, accomplishing their purpose of benefits for the people. What shall I say of slaves of reality? When I was a young man I went to West Point, and the first object I saw was a monument with the name, first of Major General George Washington, then the name of Major General Nathaniel Green, then the words 'Major General,' but there was no name. I asked, and they told me there was where a man's name might have been, and that name was Benedict Arnold. Who are the dupes of unreality? Sometime ago a revolutionary Socialist asked me why we didn't do something to get some place. I told him he and his fellows changed their mind so often they didn't have time to change their condition. Suppose I should want everything in this world colored blue, and should decide to begin with the green grass. If I changed a few blades each day from green to blue, of course I would never change them all, but by the time I was ready to die I would have changed quite a number of blades of grass. But if after changing a few from green to blue the first day, I decide to change them to brown, and the next day to purple, and the next day to red, I'll never have very many blades of grass of the same color. I'll never know where I am at, and that is the matter with these fellows in Russia."

In concluding, Dr. Giles urged his hearers to exalt the constitution, to read it and become familiar with it, to preach its doctrines. If any of them should visit Europe, he urged them to visit the Milan cathedral. They might not understand the service within the cathedral, but over the great door is carved a message which they should read. It says: "All that pleases is but for a moment; all that troubles is but for a moment; that only is important which is eternal." There is no hope except Jesus Christ. Next to the Bible, the Constitution is our sacred possession; let us cherish it."

Judge Clearwater spoke of the opportunity of Dr. Giles' address on the Constitution, on the anniversary of Washington's birth, in a city where the first Constitution of the foremost state of the Union was adopted, in a church within whose walls was buried the first governor inaugurated under that Constitution, within a few steps of the court house where such inauguration had taken place.

Dr. Charles H. Johnston, the second speaker, said the days of Washington were quite different from present days. We do not want to adopt the dress or many of the methods which existed in Washington's time, but we should try to catch the spirit of George Washington. We have seen the world change in many ways in our own day and generation and probably will witness many other changes. Whether these changes have made a better world depends on the point of view. Joseph Cook said many years ago that the Nineteenth Century would make this world a neighborhood and the Twentieth Century would make it a brotherhood. The brotherhood had been somewhat slow in coming, but the two centuries had made the world more of a neighborhood. We have a different relationship to each other than when the Constitution was adopted.

Our relationship with each other is closer than it used to be. It affects not only commercial life but every-day life, not only of the people of one country but every country. Russia, for example, used to be the greatest tea-using nation. Russia bought from China. Then the Russian revolution changed conditions there and Russia stopped buying tea. China had been buying manufactured cotton products in England, but stopped when there was no money coming from Russia. Then England stopped buying raw cotton from our southern states, and the south stopped buying products of the north, and so the Russian revolution was brought directly home to the men and women of America.

On the other side of the ocean, the countries of Europe owe us fourteen billion dollars. We sacrificed and saved and scrimped to buy Liberty Bonds to enable those countries to get most of that money, but with the exception of Great Britain not one of those countries is making any effort to pay us back. France owes us several billion dollars besides five hundred millions for war supplies. And the nations of Europe loaned to each other, but one cannot pay until some other nation pays, and not one of them is making any effort to pay. France spent ten billion francs to restore the country which Germany had laid waste, but Germany has paid only one billion as part of the reparations she must pay. We can hardly blame France for getting impatient. European currency is depreciated, yet hundreds of Americans bought Russian rubles and German kronen with the idea of making money.

We can no longer take the attitude of Washington's day, that we are not interested in the rest of the world. We were then an isolated nation, and the poem which describes the "shot heard round the world" was true in that day although at that time it took many months for it to be heard in the most distant parts, while now it is heard, by means of modern inventions, within a few minutes after it has been fired. Now we are so tied up that an American citizen is a world citizen who must think in American terms but must also think of our nation as a world nation.

Speaking of Russian conditions, Dr. Johnston said the whole time he was in Russia (as a member of the American Relief Expedition, under Herbert Hoover), he was a millionaire. He had paid four million rubles for a seat at the opera, and paid one million rubles to a driver to take him there. It cost him 125,000 rubles every time he rode in a street car, and when he bought a newspaper he had to spend 75,000 rubles. During a 2,000 mile trip, his gas bill amounted to 65 million rubles. Recently he sent two dollars to a friend in Russia with which to buy Russian rubles, and the friend sent back forty million rubles. Formerly the Russian ruble was worth fifty cents of American money.

This situation exists all over Europe and is due to depreciated currency. There are two ways to make money, by taxation or production and trade. There is also a third way which is being followed by Russia, Germany and Austria, and that is to print it.

The war produced ten new nations in Europe. There are ten new armies, and ten new international relations. There are ten different nations all hating each other, all filled with hatred and greed, and if only they had the money they would be fighting each other. Anyone who thinks we should scrap our navy and disband our army because there will be no further use for them is thinking foolishly. What is needed now in Europe is more of the spirit of Jesus Christ, but it seems sadly lacking.

There are only two things of which we are sure, and those are death and taxes. We cannot be sure our government will endure always. The only thing which wins is goodness when it is backed by more backing than the number who are backing vice and iniquity. If our Constitution is to be anything more than a scrap of paper, we have got to live and fight for it, and take a solemn vow of loyalty to it. The Constitution and flag will only ensure as long as there is force enough to make them endure.

The United States has been the great benefactor of Europe. We have spent millions of dollars for relief, and we are now feeding three million children in Russia. When the American Commission went to Russia, it found death and disease stalking about; but in eleven months it had fed eleven million people at 26,000 relief stations, each of which was marked by a flag stating that this food was the free gift of the American people.

Dr. Johnston said he had as much disrespect for the Soviet government of Russia as a man possibly could have. It is not liked by the people of Russia, who have come to love the American flag far more than the red flag of Sovietism, because they know our flag stands for humanity and sympathy in practical form. When he went to Russia, he had seen piles of decomposing bodies of men, women and children who had starved and had been piled like cord wood. The hunger and distress of the people of Russia had not been overstated, and it is impossible for the novelist to paint the picture of their suffering in too strong colors. Even cannibalism had been encountered. What the people ate killed them as fast as they ate it, but eat it they would, for they were starving any way.

At hospitals visited by the commission they had found no medicine or bedding, no anesthetics, no antiseptics, and in one hospital they found a doctor cooking weeds cut in the hospital garden because that was the only food obtainable for the sick patients.

Why should Russia, the land of great natural resources, be thus paralyzed? Because a group of people had tried to put in practice a wrong theory of government. They decided there should be no rich and no poor; that farmers should grow crops for the men in the cities, and the men in the cities should make shoes and clothing for the farmers. Their slogan was "One for all and all for one," so they took four or five pairs of shoes away from the man who had six pairs, and if a man and wife had six rooms, they were allowed to have only two rooms—sometimes only one. The principle was that everyone should have just alike. If people had a very nice home, they were driven from it entirely, or perhaps allowed a room in the cellar.

A person cannot turn around in Russia without running up against the government, but at the end of five years the whole system has broken down, and today there are the same classes as here, the rich and the poor. The system broke down because government took all initiative from the individual by depriving him of the fruit of his labor. Russia is preaching the doctrine of class hatred, and soap-box orators in America are today trying to preach it. The men and women of this country must be fortified with intelligence, and every teacher and college instructor must be obligated to be loyal to the Constitution and the flag. We don't need new isms, but we do need a revival of those virtues which were found in our fathers. We have our troubles here, but still we have a hand of opportunity.

The evening closed with a brief address by the Rev. Dr. Doere, who spoke of the enthusiasm manifested by the men of the church in giving the dinner, and of the active interest in the church work which they were taking. Under present conditions, it was necessary for the men and women of America, no matter what church they belonged to, to work for the safety of our nation and to emulate the virtues of the great American the anniversary of whose birth was the occasion of such a notable gathering.

RECORDS SET IN BOWLING MATCHES

What can be called the two best bowling matches played thus far in the second half of the Mercantile League were rolled Thursday night, when the K. & M. met the Schilling and Fessenden engaged the Kingston Trust. K. & M. got back into form and resumed their position of last half as the all-around leaders, with Slawson again at the top for high score for the second game and three games. The second game of the three games was close, Slawson of 183 without a miss, supported by Adams 173, bringing the tally for the first two games to 356. In the last game Slawson decided that the leaders should take no chances and rolled the highest score of this half with 230 pins to his credit, bringing his total for the three games to 586, which gave him an average of 195 2-3, or in business terms, 200. Boessneck came through with two good games, and Van Dine with one, so the honors for team high score also went to the silk men.

Despite the fact that four new records were set in the K. & M. Schilling game, the most exciting of the two matches was the one between the Kingston Trust and Fessenden teams. The shirt makers succeeded in taking the first two games, but the bankers came back in the third, and the score was neck and neck all through. The final frame found the score of little difference. Bruck was working on a strike in an extra frame. His first throw netted him nine pins which placed the shirt men one pin below the bankers. A miss would have given them the game by one point, but Bruck was not willing to have the loss of the game on his shoulders, and the second ball sent the pin down hard, leaving the score at 492 all. The two teams agreed that the best way to settle it was to discount the scores made in this game and roll another as the one to be counted. The entire squad of the Fessenden men weakened, while LeFevre got over ambitious and rolled second high score of the league of 224, and the game went to Kingston Trust by seventy pins.

A ROOM TO RENT

By BERTHA E. KEYES

The air of the room was worried with the continual whirring drone of a sewing machine. It was a small room, but it contained furniture and knick-knacks enough to supply almost a whole house.

Yet this room typified its owner, Tryphena Small. She was a seamstress. She had done sewing always—as far back as she could remember. And by reason of overestimating her own capacity she was always in the habit of taking on more work than she could comfortably do, and thereby was continually rushing to finish something.

Poor cramped little soul! She had never had a chance to enjoy life. Always at the beck and call of her customers, she fairly worked the flesh of her bones to please them. This left her face thin and wrinkled, and about her eyes a fine network of care-taking lines.

It was underwear that she was finishing now for rich Amelia Westlake. Tryphena did only plain sewing. She did not have the necessary skill to make gowns. There was a time, though, when she had dreamed of going to the city to take a course in dressmaking, but that was way back, years ago.

Yes, she was hurrying with the underwear for Amelia Westlake, who was starting for the South in a week and must have her work without fail by Saturday, but that was not the only reason for the unusually worried look in Tryphena's eyes. It was the fact that Mrs. Mardon, her landlady, had just succumbed to shock. She lingered only two days after the stroke came.

Such a fleshy, florid, talkative person she had been. Many a night the little seamstress had gone to bed with her ears ringing and her poor brain all awheel after listening to Mrs. Mardon's encyclopedic narration of the lives of everyone she knew.

Well, the voluble tongue was hushed now. A dismal stillness, except for the intermittent rumbling of Tryphena's sewing machine, brooded over the house all the evening until ten o'clock, when Charlie Waitte went down into the cellar to shake down the furnace and bank the fire for the night.

Charlie was the only lodger in the house at present, with the exception of a nurse, who was away on a case. Mrs. Mardon had been unfrustrated with her rooms this season, but Tryphena and Charlie were always there. Tryphena had occupied the little room over the front hall for fourteen years, and Charlie was there when she came. But Mrs. Mardon had magnanimously given him the use of the room for taking care of the furnace, cleaning off the pavement and doing other odd chores about the house.

Charlie did not get much out of the bargain, but he had gone about his business doggedly and was as much a part of the house as the kitchen stove or the black walnut bookcase in the sitting room.

Tryphena had never seen much of Charlie heretofore. She was eternally at her sewing, and when he came home from work he always had his chores, and then the evening paper. But now that Mrs. Mardon was lying there on her couch bed, no longer at the helm, they had to come together, these two solitary tucked-away souls. Mrs. Mardon had no relatives. Therefore Charlie and Tryphena had to make all arrangements.

The question was in the minds of both of them. They carefully avoided the subject earlier in the evening, as they arranged the chairs in the sitting room and straightened out the rooms on the lower floor in readiness for the service the next day.

Tryphena, in spite of the pall that overspread the house, felt like a different person as she roamed about the house, busying herself with little details of the funeral arrangements. Her quick, nervous little gait was replaced by a freer, steadier swing. She had always lived in such small quarters, but now that she had the ground of a whole house to cover, something within her seemed to stretch and grow. She felt bigger, somehow, more important.

That evening, when all was quiet again, they both instinctively went to the sitting room to talk things over. Charlie noticed a change in her. Tryphena's eyes looked wistful and the tense lines around them had slackened after her "set-to" at weeping earlier in the day. She turned her eyes upon Charlie with a look that touched him. And a feeling of manliness surged over him such as he had never felt before.

"You and I could run this house just as well as Mrs. Mardon," he asserted, unabashed and unflattering. "Come, we'll get married," he went on. "You throw your humble and your needles and all your small stuff into the river. And you just mind the house now. I've been saving a little money all these years, and I never knew what good it was going to do me. We can pick out the best room in the house and rent the others. Come, Tryphena, you're not set on keeping your little room, are you?"

Tryphena tried to speak, but something held her back. Before she knew it, his arms were around her. "Oh, Charlie!" she sobbed against his shoulder. "I never dreamed what a nice man you were."

Evil in Cunning Mind.
All my own experience of life teaches me the contempt of cunning, not the fear. The phrase "profound cunning" has always seemed to me a contradiction in terms. I never knew a cunning mind which was not either shallow, or, on some points, diseased.—Mrs. Jameson.

WITH
MEN

TOO SMART

She had a high opinion of herself and regarded customers as really rather nuisances.

"Do you keep dog collars?" inquired the meek-looking man.

"No," she snapped. "We sell them!"

"Anyway," he said, as he strolled towards the door, "you'll keep the one you were going to sell me! Good-morning!"

Not So Helpful.

"I beg your pardon. Could you tell me how far it is to the post office?"

"Bless my soul!" exclaimed Professor Diggs. "I can't tell you, sir. But," he continued, brightening considerably, "if you are interested in knowing, I can tell you exactly how far it is to Sirius, the dog star."

Held to Earth.

"Your boy Josh seems to be talented."

"Yes," said Farmer Cornstossel, "and I'm sorry for it. It doesn't seem right to expect a boy to do chores when anybody can see he was cut out to be a bank president or a motion picture star."—Washington Star.

The Ultimate Object.

Mrs. Goodsole:—We should avoid all these modern vanities and frivolities lest we be weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Mrs. Woodby-Slimmer:—Weighed and found wanting? Why, that's just what I'm trying to accomplish by strict dieting.

A Warning.

Uncle Ezra:—Guess I'll go an' buy a few bananas off'n that push-cart man.

Aunt Martha:—You leave him alone. Don't you mind how old man Grassneck's boy lost everything he had 'tradin' with one of these curb markets?

Nemeses.

The class in mythology was having a hearing.

"Who was Nemeses?" demanded the professor.

"A bill collector," faltered the student addressed.

And the professor decided to let it go at that.

He—My ancestors were, all people with brains.

She—Too bad you were disinherited.

So Sympathetic.

The tender-hearted Dolly Dream said: "Have a heart, I beg, Oh, mother, do not whip that cream, And please don't beat that egg."

In Venice.

They were on the Grand canal.

"Don't you love it here?" asked one.

"I do," breathed the other. "Here we find the Rialto, the Bridge of Sighs. Here is where Shakespeare wrote 'Venice and Adonis.'"

Reading the Signs.

Wife:—Why are you so sure that young Peters is going to propose to our Lizzie?

Hubby:—Because now I've told him the same joke five times—and each time he's about ready to die laughing.

Most Rare.

"Has the person you just spoke of any claims to distinction?"

"He has one of those hyphenated names."

"That isn't unusual."

"But he seems averse to seeing it in print."

Cheap.

"Well, there's one good thing about that wedding present you're sending them."

"What is it?"

"They won't need to go to the expense of hiring detectives to guard it."

Mind Reading.

Young Doc (taking pulse of old patient):—I rather think that you regard me as a quack.

Patient:—Doctor, you certainly surprise me by reading my thoughts through my pulse.

Just the Kind.

She—I do not care to marry you. I do not care even to talk to you.

He (a widower):—That is precisely the reason I want you to marry me.

Fear and Hope.

He—I have a presentiment that our engagement won't last.

She—Oh, Harry, don't say that; I hope it will last forever.

Near East Folk Lore.

In the Near East among people who have little book learning folk lore has a wide circulation. It came down through many generations and the proverbs gathered in the centuries reflect much of the ancient philosophy and cynicism of the Orient.

WASTED ENERGY

"When I wuzz a young man, mum, de neighbors where I lived called me a 'human dynamo,'" said the languid-looking tramp.

"Well, they wouldn't call you that now," answered the housewife.

"No'm. But I wuzz like a dynamo in one respect."

The Law's So Inquisitive.

"Why do you want a divorce?" asked the lawyer.

"Oh, just because," said the fair visitor.

"Just because" is a good feminine excuse, but if you want to get the judge's serious attention you'll have to amplify it a little in court."

The Money's Worth.

"Your constituents say your speeches are not as entertaining as they used to be."

"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "they ought to be reasonable, and remember a man in my position doesn't draw the salary of a great public entertainer."—Washington Star.

The Doubt.

"And you don't believe the story of Noah and the ark?"

"Oh, I can't say I just don't believe it, friend. But what I say is, it makes me kind o' curious. I'd like to know how they got them two hogs on the ark with only Noah's family to help drive 'em."

Time Changes Them.

"No, I positively will not travel over that smoky O. N. T. railroad again. It has too many long, dirty tunnels."

"You never said that before we were married. In fact, you didn't want to travel over any other road."

Or an Umbrella.

AT HIGH SCHOOL TONIGHT

The varsity basketball team of Kingston is spending the week in Brooklyn with her mother, Mrs. Charles Denton.

There are several cases of flu in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Berf Mayes of Kingston spent Sunday in town with Mr. Mayes's parents.

A caucus will be held at the village hall on Saturday evening, March 3, for the purpose of placing a nomination officers to be elected for the ensuing year.

It is estimated that more than sixty inches of snow has fallen in this section since December 1.

Several days during the long spell of extreme cold weather there has been no school in this village.

owing to the fact that it was impossible to heat the school rooms sufficiently in order that the teachers and pupils would be comfortable.

Leslie Elgnor made a business trip to Kingston on Wednesday Tuesday.

H. W. Misner had the misfortune to lose one of his best horses on Tuesday.

George Kelder of Big Indian was a Pine Hill visitor on Monday.

WETS GRILL ANDERSON AND OTHER DRYS IN JUDGE STALEY'S COURT

The Rev. Mr. Wilkins Assists Galt, Serving Subpoena, Down Steps—Marsh Denies Asking Voters in Speeches to Defeat Congressman Ward.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, Feb. 23.—With William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, scheduled to testify later in the day, the action to have the league declared a political organization and thus file its receipts and expenditures with the secretary of state, was continued this afternoon before Justice Staley in supreme court.

The action is brought by five Troy taxpayers, represented by Col. Hanson H. Gillett, counsel to the Association Opposed to Prohibition. Former Senator Edgar T. Brackett appeared for Dr. Anderson and other officers of the league.

Scheduled to open at 10 o'clock, it was nearly 12:30 before Mr. Anderson and Senator Brackett appeared in court. Every seat in the courtroom was filled.

Anderson was subpoenaed on Monday when he came here to attend a legislative hearing on the proposed repeal of the Mullan-Gage state prohibition enforcement law.

All efforts to subpoena B. H. Fancher of New York city, treasurer of the league, have been futile. Col. Gillett received a telegram today from his process server in New York declaring that Fancher was "under cover."

Just before today's hearing opened Col. Gillett received a letter from F. A. Galt of Catskill, saying that when he (Galt) tried to serve the Rev. A. H. Wilkins, pastor of the Catskill Methodist Church with a subpoena, "I was kicked down the steps."

The Rev. Mr. Wilkins was in court and while admitting that he "forcibly assisted" Mr. Galt down the steps, he denied he had "kicked."

"Galt insisted on having an argument and the only way I could get rid of him was to forcibly assist him off my porch," Dr. Wilkins said.

Wallace H. March, superintendent of the Albany district of the league, was the first witness called today. He also was questioned at the hearing on Monday when other league officers testified.

Marsh was asked about certain alleged political speeches he made in various parts of the state last fall. He said he had only discussed the wet and dry issue. He was particularly questioned about speeches he is alleged to have made against Congressman Charles B. Ward, who was running for re-election in the 27th congressional district.

Marsh denied that he urged anyone to vote against Congressman Ward in a public speech.

"That is against the policy of the league," Mr. Marsh said.

Questioned by Col. Gillett, Mr. Marsh admitted that the organization known as the Allied Citizens of America, was organized by the Anti-Saloon League. He also admitted that the purpose of the Allied Citizens of America was to take part in local political fights where prohibition was an issue.

Francis E. Cortwright of Cornwall, who was defeated as a Republican candidate for the state assembly last fall, preceded Mr. Marsh on the witness stand. He told of receiving printed matter from the league.

Mr. Cortwright said the league circulated a great amount of literature through his district, advocating his defeat. He said most of the literature was signed by Dr. Anderson, as superintendent of the league.

Col. Gillett brought out the unusual incident that while Mr. Cortwright had also been indicted by the prohibition party in his district, the Anti-Saloon League fought his election because he had refused to answer questions submitted by the league regarding his views on prohibition.

Senator Brackett injected a laugh in the proceedings when he asserted "If the court please, I am not going to object to anything that they can prove."

"I am sure Col. Gillett appreciates your generosity," Judge Staley said.

Never once did Anderson confer with Senator Brackett after they entered the courtroom. The league's superintendent listened attentively to all that was being said.

Asked by Col. Gillett if he knew of a fact that the league tried to get the Cornwall Congregational Church "mixed up in politics," Mr. Cortwright said he did not.

Cross-examined by Senator Brackett, Mr. Cortwright admitted that he had brought suit for libel against Anderson, that the suit had been dismissed, but that he had carried an appeal to a higher court.

"Then you are not very friendly with Dr. Anderson," said Brackett. "I should say not," replied Cortwright.

The Rev. Mr. Wilkins was the third witness. He admitted that representatives of the league had talked with him about fighting against Congressman Ward, and throwing their support to W. Westlake Coons, the prohibition candidate in the primary.

Dr. Wilkins said he was opposed to Ward, not alone because he was wet, but because he was "sort of a highbrow."

He also told how he worked with members of his congregation on day to defeat Ward.

At 1:30 Judge Staley announced suspension of court until 2:30. Dr. Anderson will then take the stand.

"Once I get Dr. Anderson on the stand, I may keep him there for several hours," declared Col. Gillett. "I am going to answer every question I can," was all that Dr. Anderson would say when the court recessed.

ROTARY BOYSTOLD OF WASHINGTON

The Rotary Club "Boys" had a real Washington birthday party Thursday evening at the "Y." Refreshments were served, stereopticon views of Washington were presented by Secretary Safford and there was a talk by Dr. Bernard M. Kaplan, of Temple Emanuel. The rabbi called attention to the 13th anniversary of the first Rotary Club and expressed appreciation of the good work of this wonderful organization. He said that Lincoln and Washington should be an inspiration to all boys. Lincoln when a boy, was probably poorer than any boy in Kingston today. All he had to eat were bread and potatoes, and had little chance to go to school, and yet he became so great a man through hard work and clean living. Every American boy is a privileged boy. It is the greatest privilege to live in a country like ours where the poorest boy has a chance to make something of himself. The biggest and finest men in America were poor boys once.

Washington was more handicapped than Lincoln. He was born rich. Rich boys have little inducement to strive hard, that is why rich boys seldom amount to anything. They give their time to foolish pleasure instead of doing good. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is an exception. He does much good in the world, and is respected and loved. Vincent Astor, our neighbor across the river, started out very well a few years ago and was greatly admired. One of the Kingston rich boys is today one of the most respected and honored men in New York, and that is Fred Coudyvald, who gives most of his time to education. Dr. Kaplan said he remembered him from college where Fred was a modest, clean boy. "Full of the milk of human kindness." Such men are the exception. Washington was the great exception in his day. If the poor boy had Lincoln as his model and the rich boy Washington as a model, what a wonderful people we would be. There would be many men like Lincoln and Washington in our generation, too.

Society Notes

Celebrates 50th Birthday.
Saturday evening, February 17, a birthday party was held in honor of Mrs. Hattie Lifer at her home, 47 Delaware avenue, the occasion being her fiftieth birthday. The affair proved to be a family reunion. Singing and dancing were enjoyed throughout the evening and some good jokes were told by Walter Lifer, Gus Pianthaber of Paterson, N. J., and Ernest Bogarr of Bridgeport, Conn. At 12 o'clock the guests were ushered into the dining room where a delicious repast was served. On the center of the table was a beautiful birthday cake upon which were fifty lighted candles. The guests departed at an early hour, wishing Mrs. Lifer many more happy birthdays.

A Birthday Surprise.
A birthday surprise party was tendered Miss Marge Scully on Monday evening at her home, 30 East Pierpont street, the occasion being her nineteenth birthday. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing, and selection were rendered on the victrola. At midnight a buffet luncheon was served and a jolly good time was had by all. One of the most interesting features of the evening was a solo given by Francis Howard. Those present were Isabel and Mildred Herb, Helen and Lillian Bernard, Marie Keigen, Francis Zates, Mary and Marge Scully, Francis Howard, George Harney, George Norton, Walter Bernard, Francis Scully, Joseph Scully and Mr. and Mrs. Barth Scully. The guests departed in the wee hours of the morning, voting Miss Marge and her parents royal entertainers.

Ministers' Sons.
Of 12,000 prominent men in the United States, 1,000 are sons of preachers. Of 2,145 notable men of England, 1,270 are sons of preachers. In 1910, ten out of every 51 persons in the Hall of Fame were sons of preachers. Five of our Presidents were sons of preachers.

PLACING HIM
Guest—There's an awfully weak bed in that room you gave me.
Hotel Clerk—You said you were a light sleeper.

Mary's Little Cake.
Mary baked a little cake To tickle papa's palate; He put it on a hickory stick And used it for a wafer.

Trouble of the Skipper.
Captain Noah—Well, what's wanted now?
Monk (the steward)—Those flea creatures are demanding another dog to pasture their family on.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Feb. 23.—The action of the New York Federal Reserve bank in increasing its rediscount rate from 4 to 4½ percent late Wednesday caused some selling of stocks in the early dealings today, but declines were not more than 1 point except in a few cases. General Asphalt yielded 1½ to 46½. United States Steel was ¼ lower while Baldwin dropped 1 point. On the other hand American Locomotive advanced nearly a point. The oils were fractionally lower and only small losses were sustained in the rail group. Famous Players dropped over a point. Consolidated Gas and Producers & Refiners made small gains.

The market continued irregular all through the forenoon. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

THE JOINERS.

News of Interest to Members of Fraternal Societies.

The following lodges hold regular meetings this evening:
Wawarsing Tribe, No. 323, I. O. R. M., 5 Railroad avenue.
Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, I. O. U. A. M., 14 Henry street.
Kingston Council, No. 356, U. C. T., 278 Wall street.
Clinton Chapter, No. 445, O. E. S., 278 Wall street.

Every member of the Kingston Council, No. 356, United Commercial Travelers, is asked to attend the annual meeting to be held this evening in Pythian Hall, corner Broadway and Thomas street. Among the notables of the order who will be present are Grand Counselor H. Spencer Rowe of Oleana, Supreme Secretary Walter D. Murphy of Columbus, O. Grand Junior Counselor Elmer Doolittle of Mount Vernon, N. Y., Harry Russell, Grand Promotion Committeeman of Albany, N. Y., together with several of the past grand counselors of the state, representatives from Oleana, Newburgh, Middletown and Poughkeepsie Councils. In honor to their visit to 356, a "class initiation" has been planned and a list of applicants will be led through the mysteries of a "Knight of the Grip." The degree team in full regalia will have charge of the ceremonies. Kingston Council is nearing the 200 mark. Brother Schornstheimer, chief of the culinary department, has promised some surprises.

Dynamite Hard to Explode.
Curiously enough, one of the safest cargoes is dynamite, which is amongst the most violent of all explosives. Except in very exceptional circumstances, dynamite will not explode unless it receives an intensely hot flash from some kind of detonator. A stick of it may be lit and held in the hand like a candle.

Strange Bird.
A strange grabe living on the shores of Lake Titicaca shows the effect of dizziness of wicks. Though the birds are large, their wings are no bigger than a swallow's and they can scarcely raise themselves.

Superstition Helps Cat.
In France it is a custom to give the cat all it can eat on Christmas eve, for if, by any chance, it moves, bad luck for the household is sure to follow.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

BOY SCOUTS ON THE FARM

One of the most fascinating places for a boy scout to live is on a farm. On the farm, out among the fields, on the open road, under the clear sky, a boy could easily imagine himself back in the company of the sturdy pioneers, scouts and brave frontiersmen who roamed through just such scenes. The country boy has a big advantage in being able to step from his front doorstep right out into the world of scouting—the great free out of doors.

Scouting gives the country boy a chance to acquire a wonderful fund of knowledge about nature. Knowledge that otherwise might be rather vague, through the systematic work of scouting, becomes a decided asset of clear facts. The country boy gets the opportunity through the scout troop to mingle with other boys and to satisfy the natural desire every boy has for the companionship of lads of his own age.

The nation is looking more and more to the country for leaders with fresh ideas and the spirit of progress. Thus the country stands in need of the country boy trained through the scout program for citizenship responsibilities and duties.

When it comes to that part of the scout program where working for merit badges begins to play a prominent part, how intensely interesting must the ordinary duties of the farm become. If the scout son is working for the merit badge in dairying, what a joy it must be to see that the cows are properly taken care of—that the milk is handled in a careful manner. Every step takes on the joy of achievement, of going forward in scout rank.

To provide for the rural boy the Boy Scouts of America have instituted a department for troops not under council, that is for troops which, because of distance, cannot be affiliated with a council, and for the lad who cannot because of distance join any troop, the ranks of the "Pioneer Boys Scouts" are open.

BOY SCOUT CHIEF ON TRIP

James E. West, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, who made an extended trip through the western states in the interest of scouting.

BOOKS FOR BOY SCOUTS

Among the thousands of books on the market purporting to be about scouting, there are many gross misrepresentations.

For a number of years the library department of the Boy Scouts of America has rendered the public the service of review of books for boys, in the belief that the indoor sport of reading good literature is as essential to character development as the outdoor sports so closely allied with scouting. Scout parents will be interested to know, especially now that the holiday season is approaching, with its time of intensive book buying, that the library department issues free of charge a list of books that have received the careful consideration and endorsement by the boy scout organization. The books have been selected not solely on the basis of literary merit, but also because of wholesomeness and proved appeal to the boy reader.

REMEMBER SOLDIER DEAD
For fifteen years Memorial day has passed without observance in a small community of Cerro Gordo county, Iowa. This year a troop of scouts was formed in the place and it followed that Memorial day was observed with scouts in almost complete charge, the scoutmaster making the address at the cemetery, the scouts decorating the graves, and the troop bingler sounding taps.

SCOUTS MAKE WARM FRIENDS

Troop No. 2 of East St. Louis, Ill., recently gave a practical demonstration of the spirit of scouting, and incidentally made eight firm friends when it presented a basket filled with good things to eat to a needy family that was stranded in that city. The family consisting of a father, who was suffering from tuberculosis; the mother, one daughter, and five small sons, had been traveling in an open auto. The scouts also provided warm clothing for the little boys.

Show Every Species of Wild Life.
The 157,000,000 acres within the national forests, of wide geographical distribution, embrace in part the natural ranges of every species of wild life known to have existed in the continental United States, says the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture.

SNAGS IN WAY
OF SMITH PLANSUltimate Consumer Will Pay Bill
If He Wins.

FOR POWER AND UTILITIES

Public Must Endure Increased Rates
If Hearst-Hylan-Murphy Scheme Goes Through.

(Special Correspondence)

Albany.—The advocates of Governor Smith's proposals to nullify state regulation of public utilities are encountering increasing difficulty in convincing upstate Republicans that they should abandon the present principle and institute a multiplicity of regulatory boards.

So far as can be determined at this writing, before the Hearst-Hylan-Murphy program has been presented to the legislature in the form of bills, their plan contemplates regulation of rates by municipal boards of aldermen or other local legislative authority.

Up-state legislators under the leadership of Speaker Machold and Chairman McGinnies of the Committee on Ways and Means, are realizing more and more that they have a very definite responsibility to the consumers of gas and electricity in protecting them against the confusion, inefficiency and political manipulation, which such a program would entail.

New York City a Special Problem
One legislator puts it this way: "It may be all right for New York City to regulate its transit affairs because the city itself has money invested in traction lines, but other public utilities, both in New York City and up the state, are not affected by this principle. Even New York City has no money invested in gas and electric companies, and cedes up the state have no money invested either in them, or in traction lines."

"It is also part of our duty as legislators to protect the investor as well as the consumer. Thousands of stockholders have their savings tied up in public utility securities. I refer not to the wealthy stockholder, but to the person with small savings."

"A policy of local regulation, which, as Governor Smith points out, is aimed at ultimate local public ownership, is a policy of confiscation, and it is inconceivable that the legislature will lend itself to a support of any such measure. It would involve the loss of millions of dollars to small investors if the sinister inferences to be drawn from the Governor's message are to be carried into realization."

A Multiplicity of Boards
"Such a scheme might be thought of, if it could be shown that the interests of the majority would be fostered thereby; but it is inconceivable that any good could be accomplished to the consumer generally by dividing regulatory authority among some sixty or seventy boards of aldermen and city councils. The increased expense to the taxpayer of such a measure should alone condemn it."

The Governor's water power policy, so far as it has been formulated, is severely criticised by many legislators. "The Governor says that his program is calculated to provide cheap hydro-electric power to the ultimate consumer," said one. "While his program has not yet been formulated in the shape of bills for presentation to the legislature, his policy, as announced, provides for development of the water power by state appropriation and delivering the power at the station bus-bar to the consumers or distributing companies."

Ultimate Consumer Will Pay
"This would be fine for the ultimate consumer if a small village a hundred miles away from the Niagara River could afford to build a transmission line from Niagara Falls for the purpose of securing power."

"The policy of the state, as declared in the Hydro-electric Commission bill, enacted under Governor Miller, provides for development of water power by private capital under state regulation. The bill also provides that any community has a lien on the first use of the power over any private corporation and can secure service before such private corporation is served."

"Governor Smith's plan involves the appropriation of the modest little sum of $500,000,000 for hydro-electric development. It is, of course, necessary for the legislature first to consider the policy of entering into a scheme for such a riotous expenditure of state funds. It would seem, however, even if it were decided to throw open the treasury of the state to Tammany contractors to this extent, that the interests of the ultimate consumer of power could not possibly be served by the Governor's plan."

PRESIDENT SEES KINGSTON WIN

Over Amsterdam Washington's Birthday At Local Court By a 23 to 14 Score—In First Half of Game But One Field Goal Was Caged.

Colonel George F. Chandler, newly appointed honorary president of the New York State Basketball League was present at the armory Thursday evening and viewed the basketball contest between Amsterdam and the locals. A good game resulted in which the Morgenweck clan came out a winner by a 23 to 14 score.

The game was very fast and one of the most interesting played here in some time. Fifty-seven fouls were called by Referee Solodai who not once missed a charge, block or holdon. In fact he proved a martinet throughout the whole contest. On the local court in last exhibitions when a foul was called almost invariably a parley would be the outcome, but last night it was different. Quite likely the players were observing Washington's Birthday, but nevertheless local fandom would sure like to see the honorary president of the league at every game. And not because it was a timely victory for the home club, for sportsmanship comes first in all contests.

There were very few points made in the first half, 9 to 7 being the score in favor of Kingston when the initial period closed. One field goal was caged of these sixteen points and that went to the local league leaders, buried by none other than Penny Borman, the leading league scorer. It didn't happen much too soon either, as but two minutes remained before closing time. 7 each were the fouls caged, Kingston having 14 chances and the visitors 16.

In the last period 5 fields and 4 fouls out of ten were caged by the local team, while Amsterdam had a mighty hard time gathering in 1 field with 5 out of seventeen from the complimentary line. While all this was happening some real basketball was staged, with Jerry Sullivan playing Carl Husta and Ray Kennedy following Benny Borman. C. Powers was pitted against Grebe at the center position and both put up fine games. Nick Harvey and Morris Tome were on the defense for the Morgenweck clan and the box score is proof the hard game they played against Smolek and Schwab. The latter forward played a wonderful game on the floor but failed to make points, the baskets at the local court were too much for him. Benny Borman led in scoring with ten points chalked up in his column. About a thousand fans witnessed the struggle. Dancing followed the contest, which did not get started until 10 o'clock. The score:
